NO FORMAL PROTESTS

Stability of Southern Country
Is Threatened by Action of Calles(This is the second of a series of dispatches outlining the existing relations between the United States and Mexico.)BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1926, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—The United States has made known to Mexico its concern that the controversy over the freedom of worship by Catholics should have arisen, and while James R. Sheffield, the American ambassador, has in the last few months presented no formal protest, reports that the American government has entirely ignored the episode are not correct.The erroneous impression as to the Washington government's position developed as a result of published reports that since no protest was being sent, a "hands off" policy would be pursued. It all depends on what is, strictly speaking, meant by the phrase
"hands off."PROTEST IS UNOFFICIAL
The Washington government, for example, felt that it could not interfere in a strictly internal affair like a religious controversy in failing to make formal protests. But the American ambassador has plenty of latitude in the form of "representation" or in oral conversations based on informal instructions. Under the circumstances, Mr. Sheffield has found ways to indicate the feeling of anxiety which has prevailed here as to the outcome of the controversy.The American government has always been solicitous about the permanency of administrations in Mexico City and when the economic boycott was started it became apparent that the whole economic structure was imperiled. In the past a decline in the economic status of the country has given encouragement to malcontents. Revolutions have resulted, with the consequent endangering of American lives and property.There is nothing in the record, however, to show that the American government at any time has entered into the merits of the religious controversy which has been going on in Mexico.
Whenever an American interest has been involved, of course, as in the case of Bishop Carranza, the papal envoy, who was expelled from Mexico
by the American government, the American government has promptly taken such action as it deemed necessary and using his good offices. This action can be construed as a protest but in diplomatic parlance it merely amounts to representations.VENEZUELA LETTER IN 1912
The general policy that is being pursued is based more or less on an important precedent which occurred during the last Republican administration when Huntington Wilson was acting secretary of state under President Taft in February, 1912. At that time, the department of state in its instructions to American Minister Northcott in Venezuela, wrote:"While it has ever been the policy of this government not to interfere with the internal regulations of foreign governments, more especially in questions of religion, this government believes it is naturally desirous to see its citizens enjoy in other countries a reasonable freedom from restrictions or disabilities imposed by reason of religious faith. While recognizing that the determination of the internal policy of a nation is an attribute of its sovereignty, the United States has not hesitated to express its views on appropriate occasions which have arisen at various times in different countries.
It should be observed, however, that such representations have never been put upon a basis of strict right but it surely will be appreciated that this government may not as a matter of right demand that another government shall grant to religious freedom of American nationality in the territory of that government the degree of freedom or privilege which it might desire to see extended to them."The department of state then pointed out how limited was the opportunity for "affirmative action," but added this instruction:"If it should eventually appear that the enforcement of the decree in question will, as a matter of fact, terminate the privileges of freedom of worship hitherto guaranteed under Venezuela law."

SECOND WOMAN SWIMS CHANNEL

Office-Seekers File
Pre-Primary ExpensesMadison—(AP)—The Zimmerman-for-Governor club, of which Harvey
C. Hartwig, Milwaukee, is president, has spent $11,431.42 in the present campaign, the pre-primary financial statement disclosed Saturday.The Zimmerman statement was filed in the secretary of state's office Saturday by Mr. Hartwig, and William J.
Hickman, secretary of the club. It lists contributions of $1,330.50 received to date. The club has paid out $1-100.15 and owes $331.27. Expenses listed were for bill posting and various other forms of advertising andcampaign literature, in the interest of the candidacy of Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the primary Sept. 7.The Northern Wisconsin boosters club of Superior reported receipts of $1,072 and expenses of $761, in behalf of the candidacy of Ray J. Nye for the Republican nomination for congress. Of the expenses $359.90 has been paid out, and $391.10 is owing.The Douglas-co. Lenroot club reported receipts of $600, expenditures of $50 and debts of $293.74.NAVY MOURNS
DEATH OF AIR
FLIGHT HEROCommander John Rodgers, of Hawaii Trip Fame, Killed
When Plane FallsPhiladelphia—(AP)—The navy Saturday mourned one of its greatest latter-day heroes; Commander John Rodgers, of the San Francisco-Hawaii flight. The aviator of distinguished naval lineage, who kept his scapular aloft nine days when adrift in the Pacific, plunged less than 100 feet to death in a land plane Friday.The plane struck an air pocket, sideslipped and dropped into the Delaware river a short distance from the navy yard field where he was about to land. His mechanic, Samuel Schultz, of Philadelphia, was in the naval hospital Saturday with a broken back and physicians feared that he would not recover.FALLS LESS THAN 100 FEET
Most witnesses say that the plane fell probably less than 100 feet into four feet of water. The commander was enroute from Washington to attend a conference with other naval officers and to inspect a partly finished new type of airplane in which he contemplated making a 3,000-mile flight. He had circled the landing field once and was descending to make a landing when the machine dropped nose first about 100 feet from shore.Officers, sailors and marines rushed to the rescue. Schultz had loosened the straps that held him to his seat and was working to release Rodgers when help came.The heads of the two flyers were just above water. The engine of the plane lay partly on the commander's chest and one leg was caught in the wreckage.CHEST IS CRUSHED
On the operating table surgeons found that the heavy engine had crushed his chest, broken ribs and punctured his vital organs. The commander was conscious almost to the end."He reminded me of some of the men I treated at the front," said Lieut.-Commander F. E. Louey of the Naval Medical corps. "Sometimes a man would be thoroughly conscious and would ask for a cigarette. Then, before you could get it lighted for him he would die. That was the way it was with Commander Rodgers. He was game to the very end."FAMILY OF FIGHTERS
With the death of Commander Rodgers the navy finds itself for the first time in years without a member of his family on its active roster. He was the son of Admiral John A.
Rodgers, retired, and a descendant of Commander John Rodgers, one of the fathers of the navy. It has been a tradition that there has been a John Rodgers in the navy ever since. There was a navy Commander Rodgers who was born in Washington, Jan. 15, 1851.
The body will be sent from Philadelphia to the home of the flier's parents at Havre De Grace, Md., Saturday and funeral services will be held there Monday.TOW-BOAT CAPTAIN'S

City on Flower Carpet Spread by FollowersChicago—(AP)—Across a carpet of flowers spread through the concourse of the LaSalle Street station by a throng of followers, Jiddu Krishna-murti hailed by theosophists as founder of a new world religious era, made a triumphal entry into Chicago Saturday.Dismounting from a train from New York at the side of his aged guardian, Mrs. Annie Besant, president of the world Theosophical society, the 30-year-old Hindu walked impressively and benignly through a lane which police opened ahead of him all but bending under the weight of garlands heaped about his neck and flowers tossed by the crowd on to the heads of himself and Mrs. Besant.It was a triumphal procession which welcomed the Brahmin to the forthright American convention of Theosophists.
The weather was ideal and the sea swam and flat as a mill pond.As Amelia Gade, Mrs. Corson, swam from Albany, N. Y., to New York City, by stages in 63 hours, 35 minutes, a distance of 153 miles. In 1923 Mrs.

Corson tried to swim the channel, starting from Dover.She swam to within two miles of the French coast, where she had to be taken out on account of the rough sea. She was

urday AfternoonDover, England—(AP)—Mrs. Clem-ington Corson, 27, of New York, the mother of two children, and well known as a long distance swimmer,
Saturday swam the English Channel.
She was the second woman to accomplish this brilliant feat in the history of channel swimming. Gertrude Ederle, who returned to her home in New York Friday, conquered the grim stretch of water on Aug. 6, being the first woman ever to swim the channel and setting up the record of 14 hours and 31 minutes.Mrs. Corson's victory was the more impressive in as much as Frank Perks, English swimmer, who started with her Friday night and swam most of the way in her trial was forced to quit when a mile and a half from the English coast after being in the water more than fourteen hours.SECOND TO EDERLE RECORD Except for the record of 14 hours and 31 minutes made by Miss Ederle, Mrs. Corson broke the records of the previous five men channel swimmers, her time being about 15 hours. The best time made by a man channel swimmer was by Sebastian Tiraboschi, the Argentine-Italian swimmer who crossed the channel in 1923 in 16 hours and 23 minutes.The weather was ideal and the sea swam and flat as a mill pond.

has accomplished the feat.
Although in seclusion Saturday

the crowds which still gathered from disturbing her after the exceptions of her welcome home Friday,
"Trudy" sent a message to newspaper-read. "I tender my heartiest con-and Mathew Kimes, young Arkansas exconvicts who Friday eluded scores of pursuers in the hills of eastern Oklahoma and western Arkansas after wounding three peace officers, one fatally, were captured early Saturday near Rudy, Ark., after a battle with officers. It was reported here.The report received by the state bureau of identification said that the men confessed the robbery of two banks at Covington, Okla., last Wednesday and the fatal shooting of Perry Chuculate, Sequoyah-co. deputy sheriff, Friday. The men were held Saturday in the jail at Vanburen, Ark.Both men were wounded in the last fight with officers. It was the third gun battle in which they had engaged in 24 hours. Their wounds were not serious and were treated in the Vanburen jail.READY FOR OPENING OF FAIR IN MILWAUKEEMilwaukee—(AP)—All is in readiness for the opening Monday of the 76th annual Wisconsin State Fair at West Allis, officials announced after a week spent in making final arrangements for the state's annual exposition of its agricultural and industrial greatness.The fairgrounds will be the show place next week for every phase of life touching the rural and urban residents of the Badger state and it is expected that thousands would attend.Governor John J. Blaine, in a statement, urged attendance at the fair, saying "I know of no better way for the citizens of Wisconsin to learn to realize our industrial greatness than by attending this year's fair."

Officials declared that the management has surpassed former years in planning the exhibits and entertainment, which constitute the two outstanding attractions.MARINES LAND
IN NICARAGUAWashington—(AP)—Two hundred American sailors and marines have been landed by the cruiser Galveston at Bluefields, Nicaragua, to protect foreign life and property.The landing was made after the Nicaraguan governor at Bluefields had informed the Galveston's commander that the Nicaraguan government forces were in no position to guarantee protection of life and property against a revolutionary force which is marching upon Bluefields.Latest reports from American officials in Nicaragua indicate that the revolutionists attack on Bluefields will be successful.24 CONVICTS BREAK PRISON
IN MICHIGANOverpower Guards in State
Reformatory Plot; Three
Are RecapturedIonia, Mich.—(AP)—Two of 24 convicts who escaped from the Michigan State reformatory here early Saturday were recaptured Saturday forenoon in a wooded section 19 miles north of here. The prisoners, Napoleon Smith and Charles Smith, surrendered readily to Warden Charles Sheen and two other officers.The convicts from the reformatory were at large, many of them armed, as the result of a sensational break-in which they virtually took possession of the institution.A third convict, Sam Glick, sentenced from Detroit was captured in a swamp four miles southeast of here this afternoon. Like the others he surrendered readily and disclaimed any knowledge of a prearranged plan for escaping.The pair told Warden Sheen that Franklin Todd and Benton Ford of Toledo, sentenced for robbery of the Hadley State bank, in LaPeere county, were among the leaders in the escape.OVERPOWER GUARDS
The plot, which prison officials believe has been in process of formation for several weeks, culminated early Saturday in a well organized attack in which the escaped prisoners, all housed in one of the institution's dormitories fell on the guards there, overpowering and disarming them. They made their way into a rotunda leading off from the dormitory, rushed the guards there and likewise overpowered them. They then charged the administration office where additional guards and officials were seized. The prison authorities were then marched back into the cells formerly occupied by the prisoners and locked in there.About 400 men were confined at the reformatory, but the escaping prisoners made no attempt to release any others than those in their own dormitories. Inmates of the institution are all young men, ranging in age from 18 to 30 years, and most of them are first offenders. Only two life prisoners were confined there.MOST ESCAPE AFOOT
A general alarm was sent out and posses were formed at a half dozen cities to assist authorities. About eight of the men fled from the institution into automobiles which they seized. The others were reported to have fled afoot into the country. Several hours after the escape reports were received that some were seen heading toward Lansing. Poses were reported forming at half a dozen towns to head off the convicts, and serious trouble is feared. The 24 men who escaped, according to officials, include many of the most desperate criminals housed at the institution.An officer on duty at a telephone booth in the prison office sounded the alarm. Officials were summoned and succeeded in preventing escape of any of the prisoners confined in the other dormitories. About fifteen of the convicts later entered a garage on the outside of the city, commandeered four automobiles and sped away in the general direction of Detroit.MITCHELL OUTPOINTS FINLEY OF LOUISVILLEMilwaukee—(AP)—Pinky Mitchell of Milwaukee, decisively outpointed Jimmy Finley of Louisville, here Friday night in ten rounds. Mitchell forced the fighting throughout the bout, and shook Finley badly in the eighth and tenth rounds with wicked right crosses. Finley won a decision over Mitchell at Des Moines, Iowa, earlier in the year.Danny Wood of Wausau, was knocked out in the third round by Joe Azerella of Milwaukee. Wood started fast and gave the local man some trouble in the first round. However his wide open style left too many opportunities for Joe's stinging punches, and he went down in the third.MAY EXPECT SHOWERS, gion of the Great Lakes for next

SCHOOL ADOPTS NEW SYSTEM OF STUDY FOR YEAR

Length of Class Periods Is Increased; Number Is Diminished

Adoption of a new system of supervised study at the senior high school has caused an increase in the length of class periods. Instead of eight 40 minute classes, as was the program last year, there will be but six periods of 55 minutes each. School will open at 8 o'clock in the morning and continue until 11:40. The afternoon session will start at 1:10 and continue until 3:40.

According to H. H. Heible, principal the noon lunch period has been lengthened five minutes over the time last year. This was done so that students who live a long distance from the school will be enabled to arrive in time for the opening of the afternoon session. It is thought that the lengthening of the lunch period will eliminate most of the tardiness. The general assembly period will be held immediately on the opening of the afternoon session each day, from 1:10 to 1:45. During this time special gatherings and pep and class meetings will be held, special speakers will be heard and high school programs will be given.

WILL TEACH STUDY
The new system of supervised study, according to Mr. Heible, is designed to do two things. It will help the pupil to acquire the ability to read carefully and quickly, and to learn to grasp an intelligent meaning from the printed page. In other words, the high school faculty will make an effort this year to study, and that is the goal of all education.

Under the old system there were as many as 400 students packed in the main assembly during each study period. This room was not designed as a study room but as an assembly room and as such it is not capable of meeting the demands. The teacher in charge of the room cannot know enough about each pupil to help him in his work, and it is impossible to give the individual student proper attention. If a student leaves or enters the room, many students are distracted from their work. The new plan tends to eliminate this defect.

Library conditions at the high school also are crowded. According to a set of rules adopted by the American library association, a high school library should comfortably accommodate 10 per cent of its students. This would mean 80 pupils. The local library can care for only 30 pupils with comfort and 35 by crowding. The new plans will help to eliminate this evil.

Under the new plan, home study will not be eliminated, but the student will be set on the right track in school and continue his work at home at night. The high school faculty advises parents to see that their children spend from one to one and one-half hours each evening, doing home work. Under the new plan, children will be taught not to ask too many questions of their parents or older brothers and sisters. Many times these relatives, in an attempt to help the student, show them the wrong method of doing the work. Methods change with years, says Mr. Heible.

MAKE PUPIL THINK
Another evil which will be eliminated is the traditional form of recitation, that of asking a number of set with a yes or no. The teacher will plan her questions so as to make the pupil think. Thinking is the prime motive in education.

The class period of 55 minutes will be divided into three sections, the first 20 minutes for recitation, the next five minutes in the assignment of the next day's lesson, and the last 30 minutes in study. It is much easier for 25 or 30 people to study in the same room under a teacher who is acquainted with the subject being studied and among students who are all busy at the same work. The teacher will study and analyze each pupil and help him solve his particular problems. He will be set on the right track and then must use his own energies and ability.

The teacher will draw from the library the books needed in studying her lesson and the pupils may use these books. Usually at the beginning of each period there was a mad scramble of students for the library. Only those reading library books were allowed to remain. Children should be encouraged to go to the library, bring his books and work there, according to Mr. Heible, but with the old system it was impossible to do this.

The faculty has studied the situation during the past summer and it is thought that the new system will effectively cope with the situation here.

Nearly all Appleton hotel managers will attend the meeting of the Fox River Valley Hotel Owners association at Oshkosh Sept. 1. This organization was formed at a meeting of hotel owners of 14 counties in northeastern Wisconsin, at Conway hotel here early in June. John Conway was host at the meeting and banquet.

Those who will attend the meeting from here are: Theodore Held, Hotel Appleton; John A. Brill, Hotel North-ern; Charles Emden and John Conway, Conway hotel.

Medics Warn Against Poisonous Shoe Dyes

Poisoning from shoe dye is becoming so common that the health committee of the Wisconsin State Medical society points out in a bulletin that some foreign countries and many of the cities of the United States have prohibited the use of a poisonous dye. There is an intimation that similar legislation may be asked in Wisconsin.

In the larger cities scarcely a day passes that a case of shoe dye poisoning is not reported. Polishers are not under the ban. "The popularity of dying shoes had its greatest impetus in the army and in post-war days; when the boys grew tired of the everlasting brown. They made them into black and when the light brown shoes had become a shabby looking, a coat of darker tan was a very proper disguise," says the State Medical society bulletin.

"The civilian population has adopted the same procedure so that now with the flourish of a little paint brush, a white shoe may be made into a black or tan, or a tan with a black. Thus do shoes have—like cats—several lives.

"But here is where the shoe not only pinches, but poisons, because in order that it have several lives, it

SCHNEIDER RAPS "INTERESTS" IN CAMPAIGN TALK

Tells Twelve Corners Audience That Lobbyists Try to Corrupt Government

Denouncing "interests" that spend huge sums of money to elect one man to congress, Congressman George J. Schneider, Appleton, candidate for reelection addressed a large crowd of farmers at a meeting at Twelve Corners Friday evening. The meeting was conducted by the Farmer-Labor league, and Fred A. Mueller, candidate for reelection to the state assembly, presided.

Fred Bachman, president of the Farmer-Labor league, Samuel Sigman secretary, Anton Miller, candidate for reelection, to the state assembly from the Second district and Mr. Mueller also gave short talks.

Mr. Sigman pointed out the need of the Progressives of the state to stand by the principles of the late Senator Robert M. La Follette, Sr. "He cautioned the voters to stand by the Farmer Labor league as their official organ for bringing success at the polls on Sept. 7. He urged the election of the entire La Follette Progressive Republican ticket to office.

Progressive members in congress were given to understand, Congressman Schneider said, "that if they wished to have a voice in appointments of post masters in their districts, they must promise to be faithful to the administration."

He attacked the lobbyists whom he said worked at Madison to corrupt representatives of the people to vote in the interests of "money men". He said that this condition was much worse in Washington than the state capital because the lobbyists there had much higher stakes to work for and were more shrewd in their dealings.

ticks causing many deaths. And thereby hangs our tale.

SOME DYES ARE DANGEROUS

"Many of the common shoe dyes, now commercialized on a large scale, are as dangerous—when applied and the shoes worn—as is mercury or arsenic or carbolic acid when taken internally. The reports of systemic poisoning caused by these dyes, are multiplying, and it is safe to say that not a day goes by in any city of moderate size, without one or more such cases coming to notice. The danger lies in the fact that the dye employed is put into a liquid (nitrobenzene or aniline oil) which is used as a solvent—a substance easily absorbed by the skin with markedly toxic (poisonous) effect. These solvents are slowly volatile, that is—they evaporate slowly—having the dye as a deposit on the shoe. But because volatilizing slowly, they may retain their poisonous properties several days after application, and therefore, unless one permits a suitable lapse of time between dyeing and wearing, toxic absorption may take place.

"What is a suitable time?" One week, and no less. We know of cases of poisoning after a three days' interval; then even a week cannot be too long, in order to play safe.

POINT OUT SYMPTOMS

"It may be interesting and profitable to the reader to briefly note the symptoms of shoe dye poisoning; the outstanding and striking sign is blueness of the face and other parts of the body. Minor symptoms are tingling of hands and feet, nausea or vomiting, dizziness, headache and weakness. After a variable time all these symptoms disappear, leaving the patient in an exhausted state. In some instances the effects, nervous and general, do not subside for weeks or months, and fatalities have been recorded.

"But why employ this poison at all if a harmless substitute can be used? In Holland the use of these substances is prohibited by law; we are informed that Chicago is to make a similar ruling. Why should not Wisconsin follow suit? There is every reason why we should be in the lead in this campaign because it was the publicity recently given to the many cases of poisoning that occurred in this state that has roused others to protective action."

WAITS IN JAIL FOR STATE PAROLE OFFICER

Edward Feldmayer, 21, who was paroled for two years to the State Board of Control by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday, when he pleaded guilty to passing two small worthless checks, is in the county jail awaiting arrival of a representative of the board who will assist him in finding employment. Part of the judge's recommendation was that the young man be taken to some place where he could make a new start among strangers. In suspending sentence Judge Berg made it part of the agreement that Feldmayer make restitution and pay costs accrued after he finds work.

ROADS IN FINE SHAPE FOR WEEK END TRAVELING

All Reports Indicate Highways Are Ready to Receive Tourists

If good weather holds over the weekend persons contemplating trips need not fear encountering bad roads within a radius of many miles of Appleton, all reports indicated Friday.

Rural mail delivery men report splendid touring conditions in every section of Outagamie-co while highway commission officials announced that out-of-state road conditions compare favorably with Wisconsin reports.

Traffic in the county has been exceptional during the past week; many automobiles carrying parties to the Seymour fair, especially, mail men declared.

Northbound tourist travel has lightened somewhat but southbound migrations have increased in proportion, a survey of road officials indicates.

At the highway commission office in the courthouse it was announced that state trunk highways, 15, 18, 35, 47, 151 and 76, main travel arteries leading into the city are all in good condition with no great amount of construction work being undertaken on any of them. County trunks and all gravel roads also are reported good.

According to a weekly report received here from the Chicago Motor club the only care which motorists need exercise is to avoid dirt roads. In all middlewest states, where rain fell recently these highways are reported in various conditions of poor repair.

Where construction is going on in Wisconsin the missive takes a strong point of the fact that detours are well marked and in good condition.

In most instances in Wisconsin the detours do not lengthen the travelling distance, the report states.

FEW OLD HOMES BEING SOLD IN CITY THIS YEAR

Real Estate Business in First Six Months in 1926 Is Below Average

Although the real estate business in Appleton has been exceptionally good since 1920, the same cannot be said of the first six months of 1926, according to real estate dealers here. Last year the first six months were not prosperous, either, but large business in August and September raised the average.

Business during the past two years has been especially satisfactory, according to one dealer. The real estate business at present consists more of selling lots and renting homes, than of selling old homes. The reason given for this is that the building program in Appleton for the past three years has been large.

The most popular price for homes, sold by local dealers, range from $3,000 to $6,000. Homes selling for $3,500 or $5,500 seem to meet with more favor as the majority of homes sold are for either of those amounts.

There is a decreased demand of farms in this vicinity and an increase in the number of farms offered for sale, dealers say. One dealer ventured "that I could take a checkbook, buy any farm in the state with the exception of a few, at a reasonable figure." Farmers seem to be moving to the city, although statistics for the past year showed that there were several hundred more farms in operation in Wisconsin than the year before. This may be explained by the fact that many of the larger farms have been divided into smaller tracts and sold, according to one dealer.

LOSER IN SENATE RACE THROUGH IN STATE POLITICS

Either Blaine or Lenroot Sure to Go on Political Shelf

Politicians in Wisconsin generally are agreed the loser in the race between Senator J. L. Lenroot and Gov. J. J. Blaine will be relegated to political oblivion after the primary election on Sept. 7. The loser will have reached the end of his rope, it is believed, and will no longer be regarded as a political possibility in this state. Senator Lenroot, with two elections to the senate in his record, is on top. Blaine, three times governor, is almost on top. One of them is destined for a long fall a week from next Tuesday.

Mr. Lenroot would have little or nothing to fall back on, and it is hardly to be considered that he would think of running for office again. It's far more likely that President Coolidge would have an appointment for him as he has had for others who found the political pace too fast. Early in the campaign Mr. Lenroot told close friends, "I have one good fight left in me." He is making that fight because it's now or never with him.

Gov. Blaine would be as bad off in defeat. He has against him the La Follette insurgents, but that opposition may be offset by the friendship of the La Follette family. The La Follettes are doing all they can to help the governor, but if Mr. Blaine is defeated they probably will extend their sympathy and forget all about him.

BLAINE HAS HURT SELF
As the primary approaches Senator Lenroot seems to have improved his chances in one of the most thorough campaigns he ever has made. His campaign lacks some high spots of six years ago, when Warren G. Harding, then a candidate for president, Herbert Hoover and others of Republican leadership spoke for him but the senator himself never worked harder.

Gov. Blaine was hurt himself by not accepting Mr. Lenroot's challenge to debate the world court and by saying so little about prohibition modification. Generals in the La Follette camp believe he should have debated Mr. Lenroot or made no reference to the challenge. On prohibition, they regret he ever delivered a wet message to the legislature because the old La Follette theory has been campaigns on economic issues without bringing in any question which might divide the party's forces.

CANT DRAW SHARP LINES
In any highly worked up row over prohibition it would be impossible to draw the same sharp lines that can be drawn in a purely economic controversy because there are wet and dry in the La Follette camp the same as in any other camp. Perhaps this explains why Mr. Blaine hasn't said much about modification.

Mr. Lenroot and Mr. Blaine started out with certain fixed support. On that basis the governor was conceded the lead. To what degree Mr. Lenroot may have reduced Mr. Blaine's support is speculative far beyond any analysis by enthusiastic campaign managers.

COVERS OF CATCH BASINS IN APPLETON ARE LOCKED

Although many cities are faced with the problem of preventing the public from discarding garbage and waste materials into catch basins, Appleton is not troubled with this difficulty, according to Robert M. Connelly, city engineer. The covers of catch basins in this city are all locked and can be opened by no one who is not a city employee, he declared.

Catch basins are cleaned out once every year, Robert Hackworth, city street commissioner, reports. A crew from the city street department conducts an annual inspection each fall and removes debris which has collected in the bottom of basins during the year. If it is necessary at any other time to clean out a basin which has become clogged the work is done immediately.

PICTURE STATE HEALTH CONDITIONS AT FAIR

West Allis—(P)—Health conditions in Wisconsin will be presented graphically by means of charts, models, and pictures at the state fair here next week.

Hourly health talks and the weighing and measuring of children will be offered by the state board of health for the promotion of practical health conservation.

Models will be shown to illustrate the effects on home environments where improper attention is paid to water supply waste disposal and farm drainage. The other side of the picture is portrayed in models of attractive farms equipped with modern facilities in water supply, waste disposal, and machinery for making farm tasks shorter and lighter.

Efforts of the state to eliminate pollution from streams will be shown in a series of photographs and other material.

There will be an extensive exhibit of the work for child welfare and for school health as encouraged by the public health nursing system.

DON'T PARK CAR AT POSTOFFICE

Fire Department May Ask
Police to Arrest All Zoning
Violators

Parking in front of the postoffice building in the restricted fire zone has become so prevalent that measures may be taken by the police department to cause arrests on the slightest provocation, it was stated by Fire Chief George P. McGillan on Tuesday.

Cars parked for a space of about 165 feet in front of the main entrance to the building might cause a serious delay in reaching a fire, the chief said. It would be impossible, he pointed out, for the large truck coming out of the firehouse to make the swing into the street without either backing up or rolling with an automobile parked in the danger zone.

Signs have been prominently placed at this spot and there is no reason why a car should be parked in the restricted area, according to the authorities. It was also pointed out that persons have no legal right to stop their cars, even to enter the postoffice to mail a letter.

DRINK MORE WATER, SAYS HEALTH OFFICER

Everyone should drink at least six glasses of water daily to preserve health, Theodore G. Sanders, deputy health officer, states. Drink more if you desire, but let six glasses be a minimum, he warned. Cultivate the "health habit."

"There are several reasons why drinking of water is necessary to bodily health and vigor," he said. "To begin with, water softens the food we eat, making it more easily digested and absorbed. It so dilutes the digestive juices that they can reach an act on every particle of food. It dilutes the blood and lymph and keep the membranes moist. It helps to regulate the body temperature by distributing heat to its various parts and by disposing of surplus heat through perspiration. And last, but not least water is a most important factor in the removal of waste."

Simple and necessary as it is to drink plenty of water, there are many who do not take a sufficient quantity, he pointed out. Such people are accustomed to give their systems less than the required amount and although they suffer from headaches and indigestion they never dream that lack of water has anything to do with such disturbances, he said.

The basic sources of automobile value are not always apparent to the eye.

A motor car, like a house, may LOOK a great deal more substantial than it really is.

The years have proved, and each year proves anew, that Dodge Brothers are as deeply concerned with the UNSEEN goodness of their motor car, as with the seen.

The mileage it will deliver, the safety it will provide, the expense and trouble it will save the owner over a period of years, are quite as important to Dodge Brothers as the more obvious details of equipment and style.

BARRING A "MESSIAH"

It is not disclosed what persons have tried to obtain the barring of the young theosophist "messiah," Krishnamurti, from the United States under the silly "moral turpitude" clause of our immigration code. This particular young Hindu is of the cult long fostered by Mrs. Annie Besant, the head of one of the several theosophist sects, each claiming that the spirit of the founder, Madame Blavatsky, descended upon it alone. Possibly one of the other cults was responsible for the trouble at Ellis island.

At any rate it is certain that nothing could be better calculated to boom the theosophist business in the United States, interest people in its communions and theories and personalities, than this effort to keep out the "new savior." One might almost suspect that the adverse demonstration had been staged by Krishnamurti's disciples, to judge by the avidity with which they sought to attract reporters and photographers to their messiah on a special tug.

The United States so far has managed to evade the folly of barring its Hindu visitor. A grave disappointment this must be to his followers: for the mere threat of martyrdom is not half as good as a bit of martyrdom itself. It is like the difference between a column and a page "ad." free of charge.

FLOWERS FOR CROOKS

Chief Justice William Howard Taft was struck by the reaction of the "lunatic fringe of society" in cheering the late Mr. Whittemore after his murder jury disagreed at Buffalo. But Judge Taft apparently was heartened by the fact that Mr. Whittemore was afterward convicted and hanged in Baltimore.

"If we can only get the murderers convicted and sentenced," said the former president, "I don't have any particular alarm about sending roses and cheers and apparent popular sympathy for those on their way to the penitentiary or the gallows."

That is the problem—saving the flowers until after the verdict. A number of American newspapers, though a minority, have a deliberate policy of arousing sympathy for criminals and gaining a sob circulation throughout the trial. That is one factor. A number of legislators, most of whom are lawyers, adopt a similar policy of complicating legal procedure and boring legal loopholes to suit the attorney who counts upon delay to work upon public and jury emotions in favor of his criminal client.

In Wisconsin we have found that one of the easiest practical methods of saving the flowers is to cut out capital punishment. The dangling noose and the chair are mind pictures readymade for the sob-wringing lawyer. For the nation as a whole the greatest practical step will be that advised by the recent report of a special committee to the national crime commission—adoption of a simplified criminal code drawn to eliminate delays, give the judge a larger part in the direction of the trial and advising of the jury, and in general render court procedure so business-like that flowers for crooks will wither unseen in its atmosphere.

RODEO VS. BULLFIGHT

A cowgirl was trampled to death, a cowboy suffered a punctured lung and broken ribs, another cowboy broke his ribs but saved his neck in the rodeo being held on the Chicago lake front. These misfortunes, all of which occurred at Friday's show, will doubtless speed the attempt to bar rodeos on the ground that they are merely an American variation of the bullfight. Previously the stress has been put upon cruelty to animals. It can now be urged that the entrants themselves take too many chances.

Bullfights are simply gory entertainment, with no object except to please spectators, and no useful trade to teach. Rodeos are the outgrowth of the American meat industry and of the necessary riding and branding processes of horse and cattle raising on the plains. They are incidents of the great roundups, and typical of a certain important human element in the making of the west. As a matter of fact they are seldom marred by serious accident, and generally are pretty good exhibitions of combined skill and muscle. The west at least will continue to patronize rodeos as an important sporting sideline to its agriculture. They are part and parcel of the free and fearless western spirit.

A HERO DIES

Mariano Montes, Mexican bull fighter, was gored during a bull fight in Madrid and died. The bull was the third Montes had encountered during the afternoon, its two predecessors dying by his sword.

There will be great mourning in Mexico and in Spain, for Montes, a brave, fearless man, meeting his death like a hero. Women will weep and small boys will worship his memory.

But what of the bulls? And what of the poor horses, dull-eyed defenseless creatures led forth to perish in a gory shambles that human beings' primitive lust for blood may be appeased?

Bull fighting is a sorry thing, a brutal thing and a mighty poor excuse for sport. The bull has very little chance, the horses positively none. Once in a thousand times the matador misjudges as he directs his blade at the vital point and then another hero perishes. Were the bulls' chances better than one in a thousand it is doubtful if the "sport" would survive.

SEVEN YEARS AFTER

Sergeant Alvin C. York, who traipsed into camp one day with 132 well-filled German helmets following him, won America's acclaim seven years ago as the World War's greatest individual hero.

He was stormed with theatrical and movie contracts. He rejected them. He had an idea.

His idea began to take real shape, when the sergeant broke ground at Jamestown, Tenn., for the Alvin C. York Industrial Institute. It is to be a $100,000 school, with dormitories for boys and girls.

York is more than a great hero of the war. He has placed himself second to the hill people in the Blue Mountains of the Cumberland plateau. It is his hope that these people, many of whom are still untouched by the finger of modern civilization, be given a chance to learn the practical, better things of life.

Bringing in 132 German prisoners helps to win a war, but the courage of peace is not less great.

TODAY'S POEM

By HAL COCHRAN

I guess our little son will be a carpenter some day. At least the way he's actin' sorta makes it look that way. We never fret 'bout where he is. We always know he's round, 'cause, even when he can't be seen, we plainly hear him pound.

Yep, pop bought him a hammer and a saw for birthday gifts, and every morning to the cellarway he always drifts. We've heard the wee saw buzzin' and the sound of driving nails. Whatever he runs into is the thing that he assails.

He's split the dining board in two, and smashed the furnace door. There used to be a shelf down-wairs. There isn't any more. He's found a window squeakin'; never shuttin' as it should, so sonny got his hammer out—and row 't's shut for good.

There's nothing he won't tackle, when a hammer can be used. He simply starts in bangin' and he never gets confused. He may turn out a carpenter as both of us expect, and if he does, just call him—if you want your whole house wrecked.

Health Talks

THE TRUTH IN EASY INSTALLMENTS

George Bernard Shaw told a medical convention in England 20 years ago that the family physician dare not tell his patients the truth lest the patients change doctors. On the other hand Dr. Richard Cabot tells us in America that the doctor's life is always detected. So what are we going to do when confronted with a problem?

To a doctor in practice it seems easy enough to tell the unvarnished truth in print. To a doctor in print, believe me, it is not so easy. If a doctor in practice gets caught telling the truth he stands to lose only a patient or two, and maybe a poor pay patient at that. But when a doctor in print gets caught blabbing the truth he has to find another publisher, and believe me again, publishers are hard boiled patrons.

An unusually considerate publisher who caught me telling the truth had a little talk with me about it. He started with the assumption that the truth I had blurted out is not so, inasmuch as his years of experience had convinced him about that. But he was charitable and he suggested that instead of blabbing it out as I had done, and shocking and frightening people so, I should dole it out in easy installments, break it gently, devote a year or two to changing from yes to no, if people generally believed yes was right. My publisher probably knows a good deal more about the psychology of the question than I do. Probably his own assumption that this particular truth is not so typifies the general reaction of the laity. Had he been my patient, instead of my publisher, the chances are he would have discharged his doctor and engaged another with views which would run along with his own, on the subject in question.

A representative view of the psychology of the sanitary authorities is presented in the advice recently published by the head of the federal health bureau. "It is the duty of anyone who drinks at a soda fountain, a restaurant or any other place, to find out whether the receptacle from which he drinks is safe, and if not, to demand one that is. Insanitary conditions of whatever nature should be immediately reported to the local health authorities."

Now that bit of advice from a health officer seems to me very much like passing the buck. Personally, I take little stock in the hue and cry against the "common drinking cup" and all that sort of thing, for I doubt whether any disease is spread by the use of the common drinking cup. If disease ever is conveyed in that manner it must be exceedingly rare, for nowhere in medical literature can one find records of cases or epidemics traced to such a source. But the general consensus of health and sanitary authorities still supports such regulations or ordinances, and when a leader or representative of the health authorities puts it up to the layman to patronize the drink or food dispensary at his own peril—like those humorous signs a tourist encounters along the highways—urges the earnest layman to run to the local health department with his complaints, frightful traffic congestion in the vicinity of the health office may occur—if people take such advice any more seriously than they do the sanitary regulations referred to.

The difficulty is that, even if you have the courage to report gross violations of sanitary rules to the local health authorities, the best they can do is to exclaim "Chik! Chik! that's too bad. We'll look into it." Look as they may, they lack the police power to enforce their regulations. From the present outlook I fear it is going to be a long while before the sanitary conscience of the people of this country will reach the stage of development which will bring about the establishment of an efficient corps of sanitary or health police.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Asparagus

Is asparagus good for a person who has kidney trouble? (M. J. C.)

Answer—Asparagus is slightly diuretic—increases the excretion of urine. Asparagus contains considerable purin material, from which uric acid may be derived, and for this reason it may be unsuitable for the diet in some conditions. Ordinarily persons with kidney trouble may take asparagus.

So listen, friends, and hear me say, This word or two to you: If you'd keep friends you make each day.

And have them always true, No matter who or what they be (That really cuts no ice) You'll lose but few, undoubtedly, If you'll take this advice; Don't lend them money!

After pondering over the question our friend finally answered, "He gains on the cents, but loses on the dollars."

PURCHASING COAL FOR SCHOOLS

Editor Appleton Post-Crescent, In your issue of Wednesday, August 25, there appeared an article on an arrangement entered into by the Board of Education for the purchase of coal for the city schools. In the article, the following paragraph appears:

"There always has been much confusion in the purchase of coal under the district system. Principals, janitors or school board members have done the ordering without much attention to price or quality. There was never any inspection of the coal or any checkup made on the amount delivered. Many dealers emptied coal into the same bins, and if it was of a poor quality, it was impossible to place the blame. Same dealers got a lot of the city business and others got hardly any. There was much confusion and many complaints. The new plan attempts to remove all this unnecessary confusion."

I do not know who furnished the material for this article, or who wrote it, and that is not important, but most statements in that paragraph, as far as they relate to the First District and the High School, are untrue, and are a serious reflection upon the members of the former district boards and the High School Board, and in effect, amount to a statement that the members of these boards were utterly neglectful of their duties relating to the purchase of fuel for the schools under their direction and control. I served as director of the First District and as a member of the High School Board for a period of twelve years and during all of that time the purchase of coal was one of the main problems that was annually gone into and most carefully considered by the Boards. Neither principals, janitors nor school board members have ever done the ordering, excepting upon the express direction of the boards in accordance with decisions and arrangements made by the boards. The matter of price and quality was always carefully investigated and decided upon before any coal was ordered. The coal was always carefully checked. It may be true that the business was not distributed among all of the dealers of the city, but in the First District, the business was distributed among some dealers, preference being given to those who were taxpayers in the First District. And in the High School, the proper committee in each year called for bids from all dealers, made exhaustive investigation and reported to the entire board, where the matter was thoroughly discussed and contracts awarded in such a way as would seem to be the best advantage of the city.

I have no objection to the good work of the new board of education under the Union System being largely advertised in the press. In fact, I think it should be, as the disinterested and gratuitous time and labor given by the members of the board of education receives little enough public recognition but I do object to the accomplishments of the new board by whomsoever given out, being advertised by means of unjust and false reflections upon the members of the district board and the High School boards under the old system.

Yours very truly,
Paul V. Cary.

Two Floors of Good Things To Wear

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

AN AMERICAN HENRI FABRE

With every additional book that he publishes William Beebe establishes a greater right to the title of being "An American Henri Fabre." Very recently he has published a new volume, "The Acturus Adventure," which is a record of his explorations on the bottom of the Sargasso Sea, the large but indefinite tract of ocean in the North Atlantic covered with sea weed and the place where, superstition said, all the lost ships finally came to rest.

This book I have not yet read but the report of its publication caused me to read an older Beebe book, one of the first of them all—"Jungle Peace," and the characteristic Beebe charm was there just as it is in all the books of Beebe and just as it very probably is in the newest volume, "The Acturus Adventure."

Henri Fabre, you remember, was the little old French naturalist who spent a long life time studying the habits of the ants and beetles and bees and insects in his own tiny back yard. When he became known to the world he was a little shriveled, bald old man with a kindly look in his eyes—a look that is in unmistakable contrast to the metallic gleam that is often seen in the eyes of old men who have devoted their lives exclusively to money making. There was in his eyes, and in his soul, the peace of nature.

Some think that they cannot have adventures unless they go to far-away strange places. But Henri Fabre found adventure in a little plot of ground about as large as an average backyard garden where the commuter raises railishes and lettuce. He studied this plot intensively and the result was the uncovering of thousands of nature's secrets. These he embodied in a series of books that are today read in nearly every language. It was not until he was a very old man that he became world famous.

William Beebe is sufficiently different from Fabre to be sharply distinguished from him in spite of the many points of similarity. He is an adventurous soul and he is not content to stay in his backyard. He has penetrated to the trackless forests in every part of the globe to learn more of nature's secrets and during the war he became a flyer in the ranks of the Allies, frequently flying over the German lines.

And that led to "Jungle Peace." Although he does not say much about it in his book, he seems to have become fed up on the war and in the midst of the conflict he sailed away to British Guiana to establish a laboratory in the midst of the jungle where he could study birds and insects in their native habitat.

And because civilization was at the moment engaged in the act of what seemed like suicide on the battle fields of Europe, he called his book "Jungle Peace," emphasizing the contrast between the peace of the woods and the carnage of the war. That mood underlies many of the chapters of the book.

SIMILAR TO FABRE

And Beebe's similarity to Henri Fabre becomes clear in many places. He is never out for the spectacular—he is not looking for "lost rivers" or unknown species that can make a big splash in a museum. He travels thousands of miles to study the habits of ants, and one of the most thrilling chapters is that in which he describes the activities of army ants which slaughter bugs and beetles in a five foot pit and then carry them up the steep incline that to them is the same as a 200 incline is to human beings.

Or he spends ten days under a single tree to watch the birds that come to feed on its berries. His next gets stiff with watching but he patiently observes the birdlife of the tree and describes it with wonderful charm. And when he has to leave he scrapes up four square feet of jungle mold and puts it in a bag; with this he amuses himself on a long ocean voyage, making a census of the various kinds of life to be found in the four square feet.

It is a book for quiet people who do not need the spectacular to hold them. Roosevelt, in a forward says all cultivated people should have it on their shelves.

Pay Tribute To Leader Of Society

Mrs. H. S. Cooke, who has served as president of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of Brokaw Memorial Episcopal church at Kaukauna for 25 years, was honored by the organization Friday at a 1 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. J. B. Delbridge, Kaukauna. The meeting was made one of the most impressive events in the history of the society. Flowers from the Delbridge garden were used to decorate the home, and a 4 course luncheon, under the direction of Mrs. G. Boettcher, was served.

The following program, with Mrs. W. F. Ashe, new president, presiding, was presented:

Piano solo, Barcarolle, by Offenbach. Mrs. May Parks Johnson; An Appreciation, Mrs. W. F. Ashe; Our President Emeritus, Mrs. Leona L. Hale; voice solo, Dawning, by Cadam. Mrs. W. P. Hulen; A Service Well Rendered, Rev. W. P. Hulen; Reminiscences, Mrs. James Black; Response, Mrs. H. S. Cooke. Following her toast, Mrs. Cooke read a poem entitled "To Mrs. Cooke," to the accompaniment of "To A Wild Rose." Two girls, one carrying the gift of the society, and the other carrying sweet peas, then proceeded slowly toward Mrs. Cooke and laid the tokens in her lap. Mrs. Cooke responded with an expression of appreciation for the honor extended her.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. John C. Lloyd of Menasha, Mrs. Charles Frederick of Neenah, Mrs. Frank Younger of Appleton, Mrs. Leta Carey of Greenbush, Mrs. William Stoffer of Akron, O., Mrs. Thomas DeHart of New Brunswick, N. J., and Mrs. George Kircher of Kankakee, Ill.

PRETTY LASHES ADD TO BEAUTY

Beautiful lashes not only add greatly to the charm and expressiveness of the face, but they are a great protection for the eyes. They are guards that keep out dust and grit and foreign substances that annoy the eyes and diminish their clearness.

Scanty eyelashes? But why have them? It is really true that most luxuriant eyelashes—at least in the case of adults—are the result of intelligent care.

At night rub an ointment, such as ordinary yellow vaseline, well into the lids. Anoint not merely the rim of the eyelid but the whole upper lid. Then put a little more vaseline on the tip of the forefinger and brush the lashes from underneath upward—encouraging them to curve back naturally.

In the morning, or whenever you have just finished your makeup, give the last thoughts to the eyelashes. Don't leave them with an untidy powder look. You can take a little brush—the long handled kind sold for the purpose is the most convenient—and, after moistening it with warm water, gently brush the eyelashes with an upward stroke.

Here's Way To Reduce Waistline

BY NINON
CONTINION—A waistline that measures too many inches. DIAGNOSIS—you should eat less and exercise more. Flesh around the waistline should be fought vigorously, since that is where superfluous tissue first appears.

TREATMENT—Stretching will convince the growing waistline of the error of its ways. Stand erect with heels together, hand on hips. Pivot the upper part of the body, as above, describing a circle with the shoulders. Do this only a few times at first, being careful not to strain the unaccustomed muscles. Another exercise: bend from the waist, without moving the legs, as far as you can from one side to another.

FASHION HINTS

HIGH CROWNS
Hats are high of crown and wide of brim. Most of the crowns are softened by a draped or tucked variation. The brims drop more than in the old-fashioned sailor.

FLOWERS EFFECTIVE
There is a decided effort to revive the use of flowers on hats and Paris is sending over many attractive models in black felt with one brilliant flower in black felt with one brilliant flower on the brim.

COAT NOVELTIES
Rippling jabots give a novel effect to the winter fur coats. Coats are often upstanding in the back, and allow a jabot line to the waistline.

YELLOW FOR GOWN
A stunning evening gown is of yellow chiffon trimmed with ostrich feathers shading from a deep yellow to a delicate purple.

TAKE A TUCK!
Tucking is one of the most popular methods of trimming chiffon frocks, for evening as well as for day.

SMART COAT
An exceedingly smart coat is made of a combination of black satin and figured kasha cloth.

USE RUFFLES NOW
With the tallieur one often sees hand hemstitched ruffles of handkerchief linen following the line of the reverses.

SHAWL COLLARS
Wide shawl collars of fur or a contrasting material are seen on the new fall coats.

COLORS TO COMBINE
Two-toned combinations are liked in hats, light and dark blues, deep rose and a lighter tone, and particularly tans and browns.

CHANEL RED
Chanel red, combined with black, bids fair to be the leading autumn color.

EMAULET SLEEVES
Emaulet sleeves are increasingly popular, especially in Jersey stock frocks and tailored dresses for afternoon wear.

POPULAR, ESPECIALLY IN JERSEY STOCK FROCKS AND TAILORED DRESSES FOR AFTERNOON WEAR.

PAGE BOY
The "page boy silhouette" is achieved in many of the most striking fall dresses by a short tunic over the hips, slightly circular on the sides.

DRAPED GOWNS
Evening gowns for the mature woman are often draped on the left side, with a cascade of material falling to a point below the hemline.

SURPLICE FRONT
The surplice front is excellent for the slim and graceful but must be schooled by the portly.

LEATHER COATS
Leather topcoats in dull blues, greens, wines and browns are sure to be popular for country wear, or for college sports. They are being made of soft leather and luxurious lined.

FLESH CHIFFON
For the young girl, no dance frock is more appealing than one of flesh-colored chiffon, trimmed with pearls or crystal beads.

EMPHASIZE MASCULINITY IN NEW PARIS STYLES

London, (AP)—Coming fashions for men's wear will be really masculine in style, say Saville-Row tailors, who contend the rivalry of the opposite sex has become so keen that men have got to do something toward holding their own in clothing, have decided.

"With women's clothes becoming more like men's every day," the experts stated, "and men's styles slipping not a little in the other direction, we are faced in the future with the indistinguishable sexes."

"So for the coming season men's masculinity will be cunningly emphasized by such details as square cut shoulders. The effect of a broad chest will be also one of the aims. This will be done by having coats much cut in at the waist with close-fitting hips."

Murray Lawns Acreage Sale. Salesmen on Grounds this Evening and all day Sunday. Buchholz.

TIME

We all take the time to accumulate estates, but too few of us take the time to direct their proper disposition by making Wills.

The builder drafts plans, secures his material and completes the building to be used for the purpose for which it was constructed, and then has it insured.

Too many people make the effort and accumulate the estate, but neglect to complete their work by executing that instrument which places their estate in condition to carry out the purpose for which it was intended.

An estate should be accumulated, with a purpose and that purpose cannot be carried out unless you leave written instructions in the form of a Will.

COURT FIGHT IS OVER FOR U. S. LENROOT STATES

Senior Senator Asks New London Audience to Contrast Record With Blaine's

New London, Wis.—(P)—Senator Irvine L. Lenroot declared in an address here Friday night that "the World Court battle is over so far as the United States is concerned," and asked his hearers to contrast his record with that of Governor Blaine.

Declaring the governor supported a World Court plank at the Republican national convention in 1916, Senator Lenroot said:

"I like Governor Blaine advocated a world court, but I advocated a vastly different sort of a World Court. There was no provision for an international army in the World Court that I advocated. It was a court sitting in the Palace of Peace at The Hague today and to which most of the nations of the earth, big and little, have adhered. It is a court to which the United States may go, but can never be compelled to go. It is a court which I believe would make war less profitable in this world of ours. It is a court where disputes between nations may be settled without resort to war, just as individuals go into court to settle their disputes."

"The world court battle is over so far as the United States is concerned. If the nations who are members, of that court, accept our reservations, we go in. If any one of the nations, even the smallest nation objects to our reservations, we stay out. Nothing that Governor Blaine or I may think now will make the slightest practical difference."

"But when the battle is over, Governor Blaine comes forward and tells us that he is against the World Court that the senate adopted in the overwhelming vote of 75 to 25. He says he is against the kind of World Court for which Senator Burton K. Wheeler, vice presidential running mate of Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Sr., voted, and the kind of court for which Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, who succeeded the late Senator LaFollette as progressive leader of the senate, voted."

INTRODUCED BY WOMAN

REMODELING OF HOUSE RECALLS EARLY EVENTS

Work on Stewart Smiley Home Brings to Mind Days of James Smiley

New London—With the remodeling of the home of Stewart Smiley, located west of this city and two miles out of Northport on the Weyawega road, one is reminded that the portion of the house which was torn away for construction of the new addition was the original home of that staunch figure of early days, James Smiley, the pioneer and grandfather of the present owner of the Smiley home.

Three generations of Smileys have lived in the house, which has endured since the first ways were hewn through the forests.

Lumber hewn by hand in the years when axe and saw were of prime import were taken from the old structure, and nails of iron wrought painstakingly by hand held those timbers together. Those reminders were found in the old house telling tales of days when men were men and every one his own contractor.

James Smiley was an outstanding figure when Waupaca-co. was in the making. He was the county's first clerk, its first register of deeds, and for years served as diplomat in the stirring contests when Mukwa and Waupaca waged battle for the county seat.

In those days Waupaca-co. was known as being "double barreled". The name arose because of the controversy in which residents of the two localities refused to recognize laws and edicts which were put forth by the other faction. Mr. Smiley, with rare diplomacy kept the records for the Mukwa sympathizers and also the books for those who hailed Waupaca.

BUSINESS FRONT IMPROVING FAST

Construction of New Buildings Aid Appearance of N. Water-st

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—With the opening of the Otto Graupman grocery Thursday in the building known as the People's Market, and the formal opening Saturday of the Meinhardt and Sons hardware store, the entire double row of business houses fronting N. Water-st present a progressive air. The avenue has undergone many changes during the past months, the fire in May occasioning some of these changes and business houses changing hands have brought others.

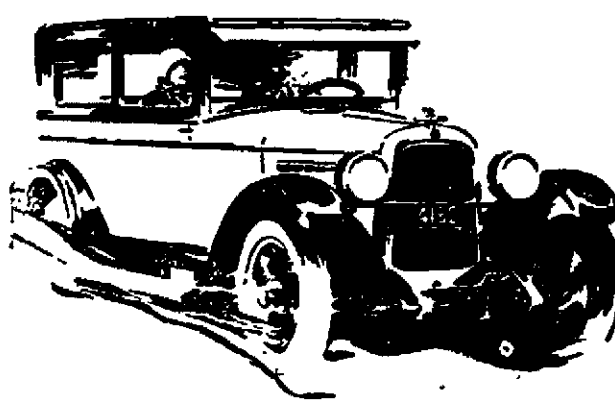

During the past month two millinery stores, that of Miss Irma Reuter and that of Mrs. Gordon Meiklejohn, have opened as has the North Side bakery paca or 'To-Morrow River,' as it was then called and in separate sets of books he religiously recorded deeds. The fight had its amusing side in which this amiable Irishman must have revealed. If Waupaca called a special election of officers Mukwa, called it false and refused to attend and on the other hand Waupaca sympathizers obeyed no laws made elsewhere than in Waupaca.

Much has been done since the fight was finally settled. Waupaca won the county seat, and Mukwa, once thriving town having streets with names, a mill a factory and ferry, has receded into oblivion and is but a farming community. Many of those who created the history of early days in the county are dead. James Smiley died in 1903 at the age of 89.

To return to the farm which he carved out of deep forest, it would in many ways compensate for those hard years of labor. His eyes strove to read at night by the flicker of home-made candles. The farmhouse today is modernly lighted, cattle are wintered by means of the up-to-date silo, and since his death the telephone, excellent roads, and all improvements by which the modern farmer is aided have appeared.

Gasoline expense is exceedingly low. So is oil consumption.

And due to its greater operating efficiency, repair costs have been brought to a new low level.

ANNUAL CHURCH CONVENTION TO CLOSE SUNDAY

Set Next Yearly Camp Meeting at Forest Junction Aug. 19 to 28, 1927

Forest Junction—The election of officers of the Christian Endeavor league and Sunday school of the Appleton district of the Wisconsin Evangelical church was held at the business session of the annual convention on Friday afternoon.

Robert Haese, Forest Junction; the Rev. H. C. Dickvoss, Denmark; Miss Hazel Peper, Greenleaf; and Edwin Salberich, Appleton, were selected to their respective positions of president, vice-president, recording secretary, and treasurer for the ensuing year. These officials will appoint a junior superintendent to succeed Miss Frances Huebner, Brillion; a Bible study secretary to succeed the Rev. G. W. Reichert, Redsville; a mission and stewardship secretary to succeed Miss Florence Schmidt, Appleton; and a citizenship secretary to succeed the Rev. B. A. Zimdars, who has already been absent from the district for several months.

The Rev. A. C. Rahehl, Neenah; Edwin Salberich, Appleton; and Robert Haese were chosen as the district's representatives on the Wisconsin conference Sunday-school board.

The convention opened its sessions on Thursday evening with an address by the district president, who was followed by the Rev. C. H. Stauffacher, Cedar Rapids, Ia., executive-secretary of the Forward Movement, who is the principal speaker for the sessions. Topics on Christian Endeavor and Sunday school activities were discussed on Friday by Floyd Rahehl, Appleton; Earl W. Reichert, Redsville; Mrs. J. Schmelein, Neenah; Herbert Schneider, Morrison; and a paper prepared by Harold Finger, Appleton was read by the secretary in his absence.

Saturday's program included a report by the Rev. A. C. Rahehl, who was one of the Wisconsin conference delegation to the quadrennial convention held at Paynesville, Minn., early in August.

C. H. Wiess of Oshkosh, Progressive Republican candidate for election as member of congress, Sixth district, stopped at the grounds on Friday afternoon to address the audience in the tabernacle relative to his candidacy. He is a Methodist clergyman.

The camp meeting sessions, at which the Rev. W. F. Kingsbell of the Illinois conference was the principal speaker, closed on Thursday afternoon. The business session of the camp meeting association was held the afternoon William Hacker, Manrow Schubring, and J. F. Kloehn were elected as members of the board of directors for a two year term. The treasurer's report showed a slight deficit in consequence of the completion of the painting of the interior of the tabernacle. Several matters relative to the improvement of the grounds were referred to the executive committee. The date for the next annual camp meeting and convention were fixed from Aug. 19 to 28, 1927.

Sunday will be the closing day of the convention. Services open with a Sunday school session at 9 o'clock, at which the Rev. J. G. Elser, Bondel, will give the opening discourse. The Rev. Stauffacher preaches at 10:15 in the forenoon, at 2:15 in the afternoon, and the closing sermon at 8 o'clock in the evening. A junior meeting in charge of the district junior superintendent will be held at 1:30 in the afternoon. The services will be in the English language.

STAGE AND SCREEN

How noble and chivalrous families, with generations of traditions behind them, and empty cupboards before them, were humbled, while war barons and war vultures grew fat on the profits of the war, is brought poignantly to light in one of the season's most colossal screen dramas, "The Greater Glory," which will be shown at the Elite Theatre here next Monday Tuesday and Wednesday.

"The Greater Glory" is the work of June Mathis, master mind of the screen. Miss Mathis is responsible for "The Four Horsemen," which brought Rex Ingram and Rudolph Valentino to the fore.
More than a year was spent on the production of "The Greater Glory." The picture is an adaptation of "Viennese Medley," the celebrated novel by Edith O'Shaughnessy, wife of the American ambassador at Vienna.

The story is a poignant history of the fortunes of a fine old Viennese family before, during and after the war. The picture is startingly realistic. The greater part of the scenes recorded are authentic and actually took place in the once gay Austrian capital. The large cast of "The Greater Glory" is headed by Anna Q. Nilsson, Conway Tearle, May Allison, Ian Keith, Jean Hersholt and Lucy Beaumont. More than twenty other players of note have supporting parts, and the "extra" parts number about 1,600.

Curt Rehfeld directed. This is his first picture, although he has been intimately associated with the films for more than ten years.

CLARA BOW BECOMES A CAMP-FIRE GIRL

Reversing the usual process and going from flapper to campfire girl is the step taken by Clara Bow in "Man Trap." Paramount's picture of the day comes to the Fischers Appleton Theatre tomorrow for a run of 3 days. Miss Bow begins as a typical jazzy flapper, working as a manicurist in a Minneapolis barber shop, whose job consists principally in kidding the "butter and egg men."

Then along comes "Joe Easter," played by Ernest Torrence, the principal character at a Canadian trading post who has come to the "big city" for the first time in 15 years.

He is so unusual that in a sudden whim she "falls" for his outdoor ways and strong manly kindness. Before she knows it they are married and settled in the North Woods, where campfires take the place of cabarets in furnishing an evening's entertainment.

Naturally a jazz girl can't be expected to entirely adjust herself to this environment—and Clara doesn't. Percy Marmont, a young New York lawyer, comes there because he wants to get away from the women who are his principal clients in divorce cases.

But he finds himself enmeshed in a love intrigue with Miss Bow. How this brilliant story works itself out, forms

"THANK YOU"
That the American public is tiring of the so-called "sex appeal" and flapper pictures is attested by the acclaim that has been accorded "Thank You," the William Fox production of the John Golden stage play, at the New Bijou three days starting Monday.

"Thank You" is fit to rank with "Way Down East," "The Old Homestead" and other classical dramas of indigenous American rural life. There is a simplicity in its appeal that will strike home to the hearts of right-thinking men and women; it will arouse intense sympathy as well as anger at crass injustice; and it will tickle the risibles by the clean humor that gives proper relief to the more somber scenes of the picture.

An unusually excellent all-star cast has been assembled in this production, with Alec B. Francis playing the chief role, that of the small-town minister whose poverty and ill-treatment by his parishioners form the motif for the story. George O'Brien and Jacqueline Logan are the leading romantic characters and their love story is one of the prettiest and most appealing ever filmed.

In support of these three principals are George Fawcett, J. Farrell MacDonald, James Neill, Marion Harlan, Vivian Ogden, Edith Bostwick, William Courtright and Frankie Bailey.

GOLDY'S STORE IS IN BUSINESS ONE YEAR TODAY

Biggest Little Store in Town Handles Smokes and Refreshments

The biggest little store in town, Goldy's, located at 105 S. Appleton-st., just off College-ave in the Spector building, will celebrate its first anniversary Saturday, Aug. 28. According to the manager and owner, Harry Goldstein, the business has been increasing daily because of the quality of the merchandise sold and the service given customers.

The store carries a complete stock of imported novelties, including fake cigars, matches, cigarettes, drinking glasses and hundreds of other fun, provoking novelties. Anyone planning a party would do well to look over the many novelties there and receive some new ideas for entertainment.

The "Rainbow" comes, an invention by Mr. Goldstein consisting of three liberal slabs of various kinds of ice cream, heaped on one of the famous "Kake Kones" which is the only kind used, has become popular. Fresh fruits in season and sundae of all kinds are served at the modern soda fountain.

Cool refreshing drinks are served at Goldy's fountain. Ice cream is sold in bulk and several flavors are kept in stock at all times.

Goldy's has earned a reputation among the smokers of the city for always having "what you want, when you want it and the way you want it." The cigars, cigarettes and tobacco are kept in air tight cases, where they retain their original moisture. The little store, with the big stock, handles the famous Heineken beer, which has met with favor among those who prefer a "better" smoke. Goldy's also is agent for the El Parol cigar, which is made in various shapes and sizes.

A complete line of smoker's supplies including pipes, cigar and cigarette holders, pipe cleaners, tobacco pouches and match lighters is included in the stock. Razors and razor blades also are kept on hand.

Goldy's rich, creamy malted milk, which are served with crispy wafers, also have become a byword with drinkers of this concoction. "Once a customer, always a customer," is the motto of the store that daily is becoming more popular with the young men of the city.

Fresh, juicy hot dogs, served warm at all hours, is another part of the business of the biggest little store in town. These "weenies" are the biggest in Appleton and are served between fresh, hot buns.

STEEL OUTPUT EXCEEDS 1925

August Bookings Round Out Biggest Summer in History of Industry

Cleveland, Ohio.—IRON TRADE REVIEW says: August bookings and production have served to round out a sustained record of heavy business for the summer period that is without parallel in the steel industry. During the past three months the mills have entered, produced and shipped well over 1,000,000 tons more than during the corresponding period in 1925 when the high yearly output of steel was established. Activities of the past three months have averaged approximately 80 per cent of capacity or on the basis of an input year of 44,000,000 tons. This is at a rate fully 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 tons per annum ahead of that shown in the June-August period last year when production averaged slightly over 70 per cent.

Except for the usual variations incident to the season, the general high pressure for material is unchanged. New requirements are large and steady and the situation is yet to develop trustworthy evidence pointing to a permanent sagging in the recent pitch of consumption.

While some steel works blast furnaces recently have been blown out and three others are slated to follow shortly, these have been more than offset by stocks going in. The general run of steelworks operations is above 80 per cent of input capacity.

The August movement of Lake Superior iron ore from the mines to lower lake docks promises to break all records for that month but probably will fall short of July.

Despite some statements to the contrary, prices in leading steel products are holding and in certain lines, manifestly, are stronger. Producers now are accepting business for the fourth quarter on steel bars, shapes and plates at the third quarter prices.

Announcement will be made this week by the mills of the revised schedule of differentials on sheets which, by modifying the base size, will materially advance the lighter gages.

July sales by independent sheet mills which shows total bookings of 352,414 tons equivalent to 113.6 per cent of capacity. This volume has been eclipsed by only three months on record and is the largest since November 1925.

Award of 31,813 tons to the Bethlehem Steel Co. for two Station Island bridges is indicated by bids opened this week.

British pig iron production in July fell again to 17,900 tons with 8 furnaces now active. Steel production was 32,100 tons.

Babson Says Immigration Restriction Poor Policy

Babson Park, Mass. — Roger W. Babson today stated that where the problem of the past decade has been one of production the problem of the next decade will be of distribution. He thinks that prices must be lower in order to overcome sales resistance. He feels that our present immigration laws are one of the factors artificially holding up prices today. Says he: "During the past twenty years we have made great strides in lowering the cost of production but during the same period we have increased the costs of distribution. Today the article which retails for one dollar costs only about twenty cents to make. The balance of the eighty cents is divided somewhat as follows: Fifty cents goes for selling the article and thirty cents for profit. One reason for this excessive selling expense is that our people are being saturated with goods, are already deep in debt, and sales resistance is continually growing greater. It is hard to convince the man out of work that his ultimate position would be helped by having more people come into the country, but I believe such is the case.

"The farmers are the great potential buyers of America. We are living in an industrial age and the predominance of the machine sometimes makes it hard to see the fundamental fact that the United States is still an agricultural country, depending for its essential prosperity upon the crops more than upon any other single economic factor. Too many of our laws are enacted without due regard for this fact and the present restricted immigration law is one of these.

"As the next election will show, the farmers of the United States and Canada are very sore at the attitude of their respective governments. The price of their products has declined while the price of the labor, taxes and materials which they must buy has gone up. Farm laborers are getting scarcer, less efficient and more expensive every year. These farmers feel that the immigration, tariff and other laws are being made in the interest of the capitalist and union labor more so than in the interest of the farmer. In the fiscal immigration year of 1925 only 11,450 agricultural workers were admitted to the United States compared with 27,492 the previous year. This represents a decrease of 42 per cent in agricultural labor immigration for 1925 compared with 1924. That is why farm labor continues scarce and why it is becoming increasingly expensive each year—as well as less efficient. Efficiency in labor increases when there are more workers than there are jobs and decreases when the supply of jobs exceeds the number of men to fill them. Farm labor is no exception to this fundamental rule. Hence, the effect, through the farmer, of restricted immigration, is to curtail his purchasing power as well as to increase the cost of food products.

PRICES STIMULATE SALES
"The automobile industry at first based its production policy upon the fact that the automobile was a luxury and could command luxury prices. That was all very well in the early days of the industry when the automobile was more or less the toy of either the enthusiast or the rich man. Today, lower prices have brought the automobile into the class of necessities for the great body of the American public. The automobile today is as important a medium of transportation as roads were to the settlers of our country. Profits per car have dropped away but the volume of production has soared and the net result may be seen in the financial statement of any of the leading automobile concerns. Again, one reason for the great development of our electric light and power companies is the fact that the price of electricity to the consumer has been steadily lowering. Undoubtedly this reduction is largely possible owing to the comparatively low cost of labor plays in the production of electricity.

HIGH WAGES, HIGH PRICES
"I am friendly to organized labor and I appreciate as clearly as anyone that some employers in the past have abused their power over labor, have tried to get labor as cheaply as they could without honest consideration of what was labor's rights and what constituted a fair wage. But today labor is no longer in the down-trodden position which may have once been will materially advance the lighter gages.

TYPEWRITERS ARE REPAIRED, SOLD BY NELSON FIRM

Proprietors of Business Are Experienced Men; Work Is Guaranteed

The Nelson Typewriter Sales and Service company maintains a completely equipped workshop for repairing typewriters and adding machines of any make. The shop and headquarters of this company, which will celebrate its third anniversary Saturday, Aug. 28, is located in the Spector building.

A. M. Nelson, one of the partners, is an ex-service man who attended a government vocational school at Eau Claire for a year and a half where he studied the typewriter business. He has had five years' experience in the work and managed the service department. G. L. Suess, who has had several years' experience in salesmanship, is manager of the sales department.

The company is local agent for the Woodstock typewriter, the Victor Adding machine and the New Victor typewriter. The Woodstock machine sells at $102.50 and the new electric machine retails at $165. Terms are given if desired. One of the most recent improvements is the addition to their line of a six bank adding machine which retails at $75. This machine is popular with smaller merchants, who do not need a large machine.

The company has a large number of second hand machines in stock which may be purchased at a reasonable price. They are just the thing for the man who needs a typewriter, but cannot afford a new one. Terms also are given on these machines.

A complete stock of supplies, including ribbons, cleaning material, oils and parts is kept on hand at all times. Machines, to be repaired, are called for and delivered as a part of their service. Another machine is given the owner to use while his machine is being repaired. In cases of an emergency, where only small repairs are to be made, the repairman does the work right at the office, carrying a complete tool kit to the office with him.

Complete overhauling and cleaning of machines is a specialty. This includes replacing worn out fingers, platen, springs, feet, all weak parts, and ribbons. The entire machine is dismantled and cleaned. The parts are thoroughly washed in a chemical solution and when the work is completed the machine is guaranteed for one year, the same guarantee as is given with new machines.

RAILROADS SET NEW LOAD RECORD

Carriers Enjoying Most Prosperous Year in History, Report Says

Washington.—The nation's railroads are enjoying the most prosperous year in history, according to a compilation today of reports by the American Railroad association.

Freight loadings, considered an accurate gauge of general business conditions, total 31,364,930 cars up to Aug. 14. This is the largest number for the period in history and 1,000,000 cars more than had been loaded up to Aug. 14 in 1925.

The association's reports also showed:

1. The railroads in the first six months of this year handled the greatest freight traffic in their history—a total of 227,116,889,000 net tons.

2. Net operating income of class one railroads for the first six months totaled $494,866,776, compared with $439,398,416 for the same period last year. This year's income represented a return of 4.94 per cent on the property investment. Gross operating revenues amounted to $3,028,560,861, compared with $2,896,616,505 last year.

3. Freight movement has been expedited. Average movement of freight cars in June, the last month for which reports were received, was 30.1 miles a day, the highest for any June on record.

Despite increase in traffic, railroads reported no car shortage in the country, fewer locomotives in need of repair and a total surplus of 179,771 repairable freight cars available Aug. 8.

The roads, it was said, are in the best condition in history to handle the heavy rail traffic from agricultural sections.

OIL COMPANY MAKES HIT WITH GERMAN DRIVERS

Berlin.—An oil company has made a big hit with motorists who complain of "road hogging" truck drivers by hanging the following sign on the back of its motor trucks: "Our drivers have been instructed to pull over to the right to allow passenger cars to pass. Please blow your horn." The automobile club has publicly thanked the oil company and has expressed the hope that other concerns will follow suit, especially moving vans.

ORDER SHERIFF TO PAY WHEN HE IGNORES ORDER

Seymour Man Entitled to Recover from Forest-co Official

Alleged failure on the part of Sheriff John Kuss, Forest-co, to levy on a team of horses for collection for a judgment allowed by municipal court in Outagamie-co, in April 1924 may result in the matter being included for investigation by a grand jury now sitting in the northern county for the reported intention of investigating alleged irregularities said to have been uncovered in the offices of officials of that county.

The specific case brought to attention here is one in which Attorney E. C. Smith, representing Albert E. Armistage, Seymour, recovered judgment against Sherm Rymer and his wife Mary, in the sum of $406.67, damages and costs representing the purchase price of a team of horses and harness.

Transcript of the proceedings, according to Mr. Smith, was filed in Forest-co circuit court, the present residence of the Rymer, and execution placed with Mr. Kuss for service.

Kuss, it is further alleged, allowed one execution to expire and an alias execution was issued. After considerable delay, Mr. Smith declares, the sheriff refused to levy to collect.

In the meantime one horse was reported to have died and the other to have "greatly depreciated in value."

Mr. Armistage then brought suit for damages against the sheriff. The case according to Mr. Smith, was tried before Judge Fred Beghner, Oshkosh, sitting for Judge W. E. Quinlan, Marinette, at Crandon. Judge Beghner handed down a decision holding the sheriff guilty of neglect of duty and entitling the plaintiff to recover the value of the team of horses.

On the basis of this decision efforts will be made to collect from the sheriff, it is reported.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
A low pressure area is moving eastward along the northern border, with its center north of Lake Superior this morning. It is causing some cloudiness in the Lake Superior district but so far has not caused showers. It is followed by high pressure over the northern plains, with lower temperature over North Dakota. This "high" appears to be the dominating factor in weather control for the weekend and promises generally fair and somewhat cooler weather in this section.

DEMANDS FOES
PROVE CHARGES
OF SLUSH FUND
HUNTERS TOLD MARSHES CANNOT BE SHUT TO THEM

Zimmerman Tells Neenah Audience "Madison Ring Spends Money Lavishly"

Neenah — (P) — Demanding that members of the La Follette progressive ticket prove their charges of "slush funds," Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman told his audience here Friday night, who is paying for distribution of thousands of pieces of literature and the speaking campaign of the "Madison ring."

Mr. Zimmerman told his audience that the Madison ring opposing his gubernatorial candidacy had seized the "age old slush fund attack" surrounded by the odor of defeat, in a desperate attempt to save themselves.

WISHES HE HAD IT
The Madison ring has issued statements to the effect that huge sums are being expended on Wisconsin to defeat the progressive cause. Mr. Zimmerman declared, "They have attempted to paint me as the beneficiary of this huge slush fund."

"At this stage of the game I could almost wish the charge were true. It takes money to fight the ramifications of this statewide political machine and neither I nor my friends have it."

"Did you know that thousands of copies of what front pages of the Madison Capital Times, Madison ring politically kept newspaper, of which the majority of ring candidates are large stockholders, are being circulated throughout the state. Who pays for that?"

"Did you know that half million copies of the publication 'Labor' printed in Washington, D. C., are being shipped into Wisconsin and distributed by the political appointees of the Madison ring political machine. Who pays for that?"

"Did you know that besides touring that state in behalf of their candidacy that the members of the political machine are financing the travels of auxiliary speakers who they think necessary to carry with them to gain audience. Who pays these expenses?"

"I ask you to watch the campaign expenditure filings and try to discover if you can, where this money came from."

"If the Madison ring has evidence of huge slush funds being expended in this campaign, I demand that they prove up or shut up. It is the duty of the attorney general of Wisconsin to prosecute if he knows as he says he does, that there is a flagrant spend of slush funds to defeat the progressive cause."

"FRISCO" SHOE SHINERS HAVE BOUNDARY LINES

San Francisco, (AP)—The wandering bootblack with his small box and brushes remains an institution in Chinatown immune to the waves of modernism transforming the Oriental district.

Every morning these embryo business men sail forth to ply their trade and for years the Chinese boys have regarded the City Hall of Justice, which borders Chinatown, as a favored zone. Even the august presence of Chief of Police Dan O'Brien is invaded daily.

A pitched battle between bootblacks of Chinatown and the Italian quarter at North Beach resulted recently when the Italian lads decided to enter the lucrative Hall of Justice field. The invasion was repelled but in retaliation the Italian boys declared a ban against the Orientals in a district to the north. Since that peace has prevailed in both camps.

ENGLISH WORKING GIRLS ARE GROWING PRETTIER

London, (AP)—London work girls are becoming more beautiful declared Sir Thomas Legge, senior medical inspector of factories, during a session of the Royal Sanitary Institute congress at Westminster.

"In the last factory I visited I noted that 72 per cent were goodlooking of the Rossetti, Burns-Jones, or Greek type, 26 per cent were average looking and none at all bad looking," he said.

The last 20 years has shown a great improvement in the girls' looks, and this he attributed to an open-air life, more exercise and high wages.

CROWDED INTO VAULT

When the seven were crowded into the vault they were guarded by one man. The other two hurried to the cages and swept up all the money in sight.

The currency collected, these men called to their companion holding the gun at the vault door. As he put his hand on the door Mr. Gardner pleaded that it be left open. The bandit did not heed him. The heavy door was slammed shut, but it was not locked and the prisoners managed to escape within a few minutes.

Meanwhile two men were waiting in the automobile at the curb. The motor was running. The three bandits stepped from the bank in a leisurely manner.

What is news, Anyway?

That depends a good deal on you. If you're one type of person, news is divorces, and murders, and heir-to-millions-hangs-self. If you are another type, news is closing quotations on the stock exchange. If you're somebody else, news is final scores at the ball-field or race-track.

But no matter what type of person you are, news is also information about the things you need and use in your every-day life. If there's a new style in coats or shoes or gloves—that's news. If there's a new type of vacuum cleaner or radio battery or vitamin — that's news. If there are improvements in automobiles, new records for the player piano, a better toothpaste — that's news.

You get all this news in the shape of advertisements. It's pretty important, advertising is. It keeps you informed about all kinds of things you need to know. It helps you. It saves you time and mistakes.

U. S. Shows Concern
In Church Struggle

While the exact nature of the instructions given to Ambassador Sheffield have not been divulged, the general statement may be that the Catholic controversy has not been ignored by the American envoy and that while nothing which could be construed as interference or a protest has been made or will be made, the hope of the American government that the dispute will be amicably settled and that foreign religions will not be molested can be discreetly expressed and will be whenever the opportunity arises.

U. S. CATHOLICS IN DOUBT
It so happens that the Catholic leaders themselves are divided in America as to exactly what form of communication should be used by the American government. Many are distinctly opposed to a protest as they do not wish to have anything done by Washington which would aggravate the situation in Mexico or enable President Calles to make an issue of foreign interference. But the majority of the Catholic leaders have been indicating their wish to have the American government in ways best known to itself make known its keen interest in the development of religious tolerance in this hemisphere, wherein the United States is looked to not only to assist its own nationals but under the Monroe Doctrine idea to aid also the nationals of other countries.

WANTY CASE

by Carolyn Wells

1926 by G.P. PUTNAM SONS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MRS. PRENTISS sees lights mysteriously appear and disappear in the HEATH household near one night and the next day Harbor Gardens, Long Island, is agog with the murder of MYRA HEATH and the disappearance of her husband, PERRY.

House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN, heir to MYRA's fortune, and BUNNY MOORE, vivacious, golden-haired, to whom suspicion points because of her refusal to answer questions.

Myra Heath was peculiar. She never used cosmetics, never wore colors. She had a mania for collecting glass, and it was a rare old whisky bottle from her collection that the murderer used to kill her. Candles were burning at her hand and feet and nearby was a card marked, "The Work of Perry Heath." Strangest of all, she was heavily made up and garbed in gay colors.

The peculiar thing about Heath's disappearance is that all the windows and doors had been locked on the inside the night before and were found that way in the morning. Finger prints of Bunny Moore and Inman were found on the bottle.

At the Country Club the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency; AL CUNNINGHAM, who is trying to solve the crime; GODFATHER BUCK, nephew of Mrs. Prentiss and in love with Bunny; suggests to Cunningham that Heath also may have been murdered.

EMMA, a waitress in the Heath home, tells of seeing Bunny ascend the stairs about the time of the murder, carrying her vanity case. Later Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Perry Heath advising her to keep silent.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIII

Mrs. Prentiss did not inquire and Bunny did not vouchsafe any information as to the identity of her telephone caller.

The girl went back to bed, and the older woman went to her room, but neither of them slept much. Toddy Buck, too was wakeful and when the three met at breakfast, though outwardly cheerful, there was an undercurrent of restraint and all were a little ill at ease.

The meal was nearly over when Bunny was called to the telephone. "I won't go," she cried, petulant. "You go for me, won't you, Mr. Buck?"

"No, Miss Moore," the waitress intervened. "The gentleman on the wire says he must speak to you personally."

With a sigh, Bunny rose and went to the small booth in the hall, where the instrument was.

As she had fully expected, the voice she heard was Perry Heath's. "Don't speak," he said, "don't say a word. But listen. You must be careful what you say or do. Emma has told a lot of stuff about you—probably lies—but she will make trouble for you if she can. I don't think she has it in for you exactly, but she loves to talk and the detectives are getting a lot out of her. You'd better see her yourself, if you can, and manage to shut her mouth some way. Offer her money, if you can do it secretly. But be careful that no one knows it. And remember this, child, Inman did it. He did. Inman is the criminal. If they come at you, and they will, you tell them he is the murderer of Myra. Now remember all I've said, and Myra go to places when they question you. You've nothing to fear—if you keep secrets to yourself. But confide in nobody and you're lost."

"But—"

"Hush, don't talk. The very walls have ears. No one can hear what I say to you, but they can hear what you say to me. So don't say a word. Don't tell anyone I have talked to you, don't tell anyone the whole truth. Let them hunt for me as much as they like—they'll never find me. Goodbye, Little One, and try to forget me yourself."

The voice ceased abruptly, and the dead silence told Bunny she would hear nothing more.

She hung up the receiver, and walked slowly back to the porch, where the others still sat.

They looked at her so expectantly that she felt she must satisfy or at least allay their evident curiosity.

"It was a man I know," she said, slowly. "He thinks I am in danger, and warns me to be careful. Especially, he warns me against the waitress over at the Heath house. That Emma—he thinks she is telling tales about me."

"She is," Toddy spoke out bluntly. He had concluded that he could best help Bunny by telling her all he knew, and letting her profit by it.

"They are not true," Bunny said calmly. "Emma is making up stories."

"I heard her," Toddy said, "last night." Buck said, not looking at her, but gazing intently at the cigaret he was lighting. "I have to admit, her statements had the ring of truth."

"Bah!" said his aunt. "You don't know truth when you hear it. Toddy hunter! You have about as much insight or intuition as a hitchhiker! If you're a gullible sort. If anybody told you the earth was flat, you'd begin to think that very likely it is."

Bunny smiled a little, but she looked at Buck, seriously.

"Did you really hear Emma talk?" she asked. "What did she say?"

Toddy hesitated, and then said: "I believe I'll tell you, for I think you ought to know. She declares she saw you going upstairs at half past one o'clock, the night of the murder. She

U. S. SCIENTIST MAKES FLATTEST DISC

BY ISRAEL KLEIN

JOHN CLACEY EXAMINES THE PRODUCT OF HIS THREE AND ONE-HALF MONTHS OF PATIENT GRINDING.

The flattest surface on earth has been produced by John Clacey, 70-year-old optical instrument maker at the U. S. Bureau of Standards in Washington.

"Flatness" is only relative. True, ideal flatness is practically unobtainable. But when a surface has been obtained that is less than a five-millionth of an inch out of the true plane, there's little room for quibbling.

This is the achievement of Clacey. With the ultimate of patience and care, he has polished three discs of silica glass, or fused quartz, until they represent the closest to flatness that has ever been obtained. In fact, these discs, less than a foot in diameter, are so flat that if they were magnified to reach between Washington and Chicago—1000 miles—and their surfaces magnified in proportion, no point on any surface would be out of the ideal plan by as much as one inch!

THREE MONTHS!

Heretofore, the standard of flatness, or planeness, has been a disc of common glass, which would vary with the temperature. Since quartz is much less responsive to heat, it was decided to make a standard of planeness out of this form of glass.

For three and a half months, Clacey polished and three discs originally bought in the rough, until he got them to the standard required. All this time he worked over a circular pedestal on which he swept each disc in very circles and loops, so as to polish it evenly and surely. It required considerable exertion, since each disc weighed 13 pounds and the hard pitch on which he polished it exerted a pull against his movements.

But he kept on. First polishing the discs against one another, with only a fine rouge and water between them, then finishing the process by the more delicate operation on the pitch-topped pedestal. This pitch had to be of a definite hardness and temperature, with only the keen sensitivity of the practiced veteran could discern.

INFINITE CARE

This polishing process had to be exact, so exact as to satisfy measurements in the millionths of an inch.

For this operation, therefore, Clacey was slow and precise. He had to judge even the length of stroke to use, when and to what extent it should be oval, when it should be circular and how much the disc should be rotated at the same time.

He had to know how much pressure, if any, he should apply in addition to the weight of the disc and when to stop, to allow both disc and the pitch to return to normal temperature. He had to know exactly when the pitch became too hard or too soft and when it needed reforming.

And he had to know almost to a certainty how much polishing was necessary to remove a given thickness of the quartz.

Finished, he found his surfaces so flat that they surpassed the demands of even the most exacting instrument known for testing the flatness of objects.

here, is ready also, but we can't do unless you are frank and truthful with us."

"You see, my dear," Mrs. Prentiss spoke gravely. "I am certain you knew of Mrs. Heath's death before Carter told you. That is why you were crying when the woman came to your room."

DAREDEVIL ACROBAT COMING

"Daredevil" Cliff Curran, described as Europe's latest sensation and also as the "swinging phenomenon," will be an important feature of the three free attractions which will be presented at the fair. Curran presents his acrobatic performance on a high, swinging, tapering pole 70 feet above the ground, and his routine is said to be vastly different than that ever presented by any other aerial performer. Curran spent many years in the British navy and conceived the idea of his act, it is said, from his experiences gained high on the mast of England's great cruisers.

The "Five Lelands," another well known troupe, will also be on the free attraction program. Their work in the main consists of a routine of human juggling, fast tumbling and head spins, all of which are accomplished with an amazing show of speed. The lady member of the act is said to be exceptionally pretty and a fine athlete, while the comedy end of the performance is in the hand of the youthful "Tommy" Leland, whose top-mounting and head spins are of the sensational variety. Tony Leland, the originator, and producer of the "Five Lelands," was featured with Barnum and Bailey and Ringling Brothers circuses for many years. He has assembled one of the fastest organizations in the professional athletic field, and has made several trips around the European music hall circuits.

FOUR VIVIANS GOOD

Clowns have been seen before on the Northeastern Wisconsin fair grounds, but it is claimed none had the acrobatic ability of the "Four Vivians," recently engaged by the amusement committee for this season's entertainment. All four are experienced and excellent tumblers, and they have evolved many new comic numbers to set the stands rocking with laughter. They perform sensational tumbling feats and then burlesque them to add to the thrills. In addition to the comedy stunts some very good novelties in straight gymnastics are introduced by all members.

Her Own Way.

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

IN FOOL'S PARADISE

That night I went to a fashionable restaurant for the first time in my life and I sat in a box at the Metropolitan Opera House. I was literally drunk with the joy of it all. The lights and laughter, the music and the knowledge that I, little Mamie Rellie, was one of the gay throng, gave me a happiness that I can never forget.

The realization that Mr. Tremaine was not ashamed of me among all his grand friends added to my pleasure. As I sat down in one of the boxes in the golden horseshoe, I cannot describe to you my feeling. I had often heard the singers of the Metropolitan Opera Company but I had sat so far up in the upper gallery that I could not see them. I was doing something that I had never hoped to do. I had an ambition to be one of those singers on the other side of the footlights, but to be sitting in one of these luxurious boxes that I had seen sold over a hundred thousand dollars a year was something too wonderful for my imagination to conceive.

"The silver dress did prove a good advertisement, you see," said Madame the late afternoon of the next day. "We have had a regular rush of customers and all of them, Mamie, have asked that you should show the dress to them."

It is a popular thing, Julie, that the three we want to do never strikes us as a temptation. I didn't realize as the weeks passed by that my dinners with Mr. Tremaine had grown more and more frequent until at last I hardly ever had a dinner at home.

As long as the opera season lasted, I went at least four times a week, and you do not know what an incentive it was to make me work with my own voice.

One day when Madame was out of town, Lola Lawrence came in the shop. She asked if I was still modeling there and when she was told I was, she asked if I would wear some of the new evening gowns for her.

All unsuspecting I put on one I thought she would like. When I walked in I found she was alone in the salon. I had an idea that something was wrong and my knees trembled when I came near the divan on which she was sitting. As I had been taught to do, I stopped and turned slowly around, that she might see the dress from all angles.

"I don't see why you keep on working," she said softly, but venomously. "I was not sure at first that I had heard aright and I must have looked at Lola Lawrence with an uncomprehending stare, for I had stopped stock still facing her when I realized what she had been saying. Consequently she repeated the words, this time a little more loudly."

was Buddy able to make your appearance there all right with the family?"

"I managed to interrupt Miss Lawrence."

"I don't know what you mean, Miss Lawrence, but I do know that what you are intimating is a most terrible lie. I do go to the opera with Mr. Tremaine, but it is because we both love it. I am going to be a singer some day. Tortentio is teaching me, and he is so pleased with my voice he is perfectly willing to wait until he makes me a successful singer for his remuneration."

"Old stuff! Old stuff, young woman. Tortentio and Tremaine made me think I was going to be an opera singer until Tremaine got tired of me and then he got Tortentio to write me a note saying he had found my voice would never come up to the requirements of grand opera and as he only took pupils who showed great promise, he must decline to keep me any longer. It will only be a little while before you will get such a note. That's the way that Buddy Tremaine works. I thought you knew all about it."

"Were you taking lessons of Tortentio?" I asked stammeringly. "Yes, I certainly was, but I will bet my future existence that I stopped the day you began. What day did Tortentio write you a note telling you he had decided you were a 'best bet' and he was willing to teach you 'on spec,' as it were, he was so sure you would make good?"

"I don't remember," I said haltingly, as I turned to walk out of the room.

"Miss Lawrence stepped forward quickly, took hold of my shoulders and pulled me around so she could look in my face."

"Look here," said Miss Lawrence to me as I looked her straight in the face. "I want to tell you something. I may be a liar but I almost believe that you really are innocent. We'll give you the benefit of the doubt anyway, but remember that I've warned you. If you don't watch your step and get all out of Buddy Tremaine that you can, the moment he sees some other girl that pleases him more than you, you will have to bid good-bye to all your ambitions."

"Of course you know he's married," she said.

"Julie, I thought I would faint. I evidently grew so white that even Miss Lawrence thought I would drop and she helped me to a chair."

"It was then that I, who had thought she was so vulgar and horrid, found out that there is good in all of us for she immediately became kinder to me after that."

"I can see that you're not to blame in all of this," she said, "but I'm warning you. You will only be on the way you are going. Your reputation will be gone and even Madame Seria will let you out of the shop just now as she is making a good thing of you and that is the reason she is chaperoning you all over town."

"Buddy Tremaine is perhaps the most fascinating man in all New York but his attentions are like poison ivy to any girl who is seen with him. She is marked after the first contact."

"Everyone knows that wife of his married him for his money. Just as everyone knows that he was crazy about her and when he found out that she turned down the man she loved and married him for the grand thing he could give her, he became another kind of a man entirely."

"Up to this point in his career, he had been a quiet, rather artistic sort of a man who had never paid much attention to any woman but the one he had married. Now, he became a rouser of the worst type. He seemed to want to take it out on all women as well as the woman he married for her betrayal of him."

"Naturally when his intentions got across Broadway, he had a whole regiment of gold diggers like myself after him and he has paraded them in front of his wife in every possible way but she goes on calmly as though she had not a care on earth, not seeing him at all when he's with some other woman. She will not give up her position and that's that."

"It certainly was 'that.' I, of course, was heartbroken over it all. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

The man who held Oshkosh to five lonely bingles and one run to beat them a few weeks ago at the Sawdust city again will try his wiles against the leading batters of the league Sunday at Brandt park when Sternagle will take the hill for Appleton. When Oshkosh, Appleton's most hated rival, had a three game lead on valley opponents the local hurler took the game which started them on a losing streak so that now they are battling Fondy for the top with a game between. The two contenders met Saturday afternoon so that the Sunday game here either will drop Oshkosh from the lead or renew her chances for the banner.

Gietzen, the loop speedball king, will oppose the Baetzmen. He is being considered for A. A. ball by scouts but Appleton batters have always seemed able to solve his speed shots, so that if the Baetz fielders are working on schedule, an Appleton win is improbable. Appleton's lineup will be the same, with the new batting order, with the possible exception of Boyle who may appear in one of the gardens or on first. Priebe, star center fielder, out last week, will be back in this lineup.

Oshkosh will bring at least four of the best batters in the loop, lead Fred Hackbart, loop slug king, and Novotny. Hackbart's clean drives have made him the fear of all loop hurlers and teams as he is liable to break up a ball game at any time. Sternagle, however, seems to have his number.

WALSH FAR BACK IN GOLF TOURNEY

Sarazen Still Leads; Hagen, Watrous, Who Play Here Later, Star

With Gene Sarazen, first day's leader, in the Western Open golf tourney holding one stroke advantage over his nearest rival, P. O. Hart, Marietta, Ohio, on Saturday, Frank Walsh pro of the Butte des Morts club, is far in the rear of the 250 golfers competing and has no chance for the title. Sarazen had a 69-72-141.

Walter Hagen, who plays an exhibition match here on Sept. 4, appeared to have a new course record in his grasp on the Highland park course at Indianapolis where the meet is being staged, but he blew up on one hole when he shot into a miniature orchard and took a 68, which he had to be satisfied with a 68, which tied the course mark.

Another star who will appear here at the Butte des Morts club on the same program with Hagen, Walsh and Ken Dickinson, for a time was in hot chase of Sir Walter's record but weakened at the finish to take a 71. He was the low pro in the 1926 British Open meet which was won by Bobby Jones, an amateur.

HELPFUL HINTS TO GOLFING STARS

JOHN DUNCAN DUNN—BAD LIE BUNKER SHOT

In the bunker shot, particularly where you play a real one over a bad lie and with a bank to be played over, where the ball must rise rapidly, see to it that the stance is absolutely secure, with both feet planted firmly, having been in the sand, if necessary.

To play the real bunker shot, stand behind the ball, which should be in line with the left toe; the right foot may even be forward a little, giving an open stance. Any insecurity may not be detected until the swing is in progress, and then will be fatal.

In the bunker shot grip the club firmly, in fact this shot and that of playing out of high grass are the only ones where you hold tightly onto the club. But do not let it be in an unyielding manner in the bunker shot, as you must allow for play in the wrist, to raise the ball at the moment of impact.

That the heel of the club may get well under the ball, keep the hands low and lay the face of the club back more, particularly if you are close to the bank.

If you are too close to the bank, do not try to play out straight toward the hole. Play obliquely, remembering that the main idea when you are in a bunker is to get out.

BLUE GRIDDERS ASKED TO REPORT SEPT. 15

Candidates for the 1926 Lawrence college football team which opens the season with Marquette university of Milwaukee here on Oct. 2, have been requested to report at Whiting field on Wednesday, Sept. 15. Letters were sent out this week to 1925 regulars and reserves and members of the last year's frosh squad by Coach Mark S. Catlin. Already some of the local members of the squad are working out at the field. Marquette's training season opens even earlier than the Blues, with a camp at Lake Beulah.

NEXT WEEK GAMES
Monday—Y. M. C. A. vs. Interlakes.
Wednesday—Post-Crescent vs. Bankers.
Friday—Post-Crescent vs. Y. M. C. A.

Taking a lead near the close of the game and holding hard in the final inning, the Post-Crescent softball team made sure of third place in the City Twilight League Friday evening in a battle at Jones park. The Meyer Press crew was the victim, 12-11, and the loss threw the Colvin boys from a fourth to a lone position on the bottom. The win put the P-C men a game from second place with a chance for the position by winning the next two tilts, the last of which is with the Triangles, holders of the place. If both win their next games, the final game will give the Y crew a lone second by a win, while a "P-C win will only mean a tie for the place.

Neither team showed much real playing Friday, both losing runs by poor work on the paths and errors in plenty aided both crews to runs. R. Colvin and Wagner both worked well from the mounds but Wagner had better support in the walkies. Colvin allowed seven hits, pitched two and fanned four, while his mates contributed ten errors, according to the score book. Wagner allowed 17 hits, the scorebook said, and only one error is marked up against the winners. Wagner gave one walk and fanned three, all being Fred Rehfeldt.

Bayer got four hits, LaMere and R. Colvin three, and Peterson and H. Colvin two, for the losers. Bates led the winners with two hits, while Hartzell had a hit and a walk.

Neither team scored until the fifth, the Pressmen getting three scattered hits and the eventual winners not a one. In the fifth hits by Bergman and Hartzell, two errors and a walk to Wagner meant four P-C runs but Weber, Colvin and Peterson hit an error got two back for the Meyer men. Three more Press runs in the sixth while the P-C was scoring once made it 5-5. The Pressmen took a 7-6 lead in the seventh scoring two to the P-C team's one. Then the big break came and in the eighth, six Press errors and a hit by Bates shot four runs across for the winners for a 10-7 lead when the Pressmen went down 1-2-3. Two more came over in the ninth for a 12-7 lead. Then the P-C men almost lost the battle, five hits mingled with two outs giving the losers four runs. With the tying run on Rehfeldt fanned for the third out. Two of the hits in the last frame were due to the darkness which spoiled chances to stop low hit balls.

HAGEN, WATROUS PLAY GOLF

APPLETON SQUAD FOURTH IN LOOP SLUGGING RACE

Manager Baetz Leads Team With .378 for Third; Schultz Has .312

With Manager C. O. Baetz leading the way with a mark of .378, the Appleton team of the Fox River Valley league is in fourth place in team batting, according to averages issued Saturday by President C. L. Prefontaine. All of the teams took a decided slump in batting, Oshkosh, the loop leader, holding a mark of only .247 to top the batting records also. Appleton's mark of .220 is only .027 behind the leaders and .003 behind Kimberly in third. Green Bay, one of the 1-2-3 squads of the loop standing, bats last with Neenah's rebuilt crew shooting about it.

SIX HOME RUNS

Appleton leads the loop in home runs with six, one more than Green Bay, but has drawn only 28 walks, for low in that department while having the most strikeouts, 123, one more than the Baetz. Clusman leads the loop in homers, having had three above Baetz. Ford, with 388, .010 above Baetz. The only other Appleton man to have a pair. They are Priebe and Son Tornow. Other Appleton four-basers were made by Schultz and Radtke.

Larson of Neenah leads the loop in batting with .500 but he has played in but three games, toeing the plate three times. Hackbart of Oshkosh is the real leader with .454, followed by L. Farris, Fond du Lac, with .410 above Baetz. The only other Appleton man is Schultz in seventh with .312, though Priebe has a .282 mark. Son Tornow, Aschman and Radtke are above the .200 mark, next in order. Gosha and Bent are the only regulars whose elicit refuses to work fairly well.

Schultz and Radtke each have fanned 105 times, Bent, 12. Vanderhook, Kimberly, leads in stolen bases with 13, three ahead of his nearest rival while Len Smith of the same team has walked 12 times to lead in that department. Green Bay leads in double plays with 13 while Appleton and Fondy are next with nine each. Neenah is lowest with three.

Tunney Pulls Trick Even Jack Couldn't Do; Gives Tommy Gibbons 1st Kayo

Allows Harry Greb to Escape Knockout to Cinch Bout With St. Paul Boy

This is the seventh of a series of articles by Joe Williams, fictitious expert of NEA Service, Inc., dealing with the life story of Gene Tunney, challenger for the heavyweight title.

With Carpenter out of the way Tommy Gibbons loomed as the next logical note in the bombastic ballyhoo that was to carry Gene Tunney to the front as Dempsey's foremost challenger.

Already Tunney had done something Gibbons couldn't do: he had stopped the Frenchman. Gibbons in addition to representing a stern fighting test was replete with unusual ballyhoo material. The ring still knew him as the only man who had gone 15 rounds with the champion.

Earlier in the respective careers of Gibbons and Tunney there had been a time when the St. Paul Irishman was scoffed at Tunney's ring abilities.

I remember asking Tommy what he thought of Tunney as a fighter a few years ago when there was talk of sending the ex-marine against Harry Wills, the giant negro.

Tommy answered as a satirist rather than a critic. "Well, I'll say this for him. He was better English than any fighter in the game."

Later on when Tommy began to feel himself slipping and the records showed Tunney was advancing by swift, sure strides, Gibbons ceased to be a scoffer.

When Jimmy De Forest went to St. Paul to sign Gibbons for a Tunney match to be held at the Polo Grounds in New York he was misled by what you might exactly call an enthusiastic battler teeming with eagerness to decorate the dotted line.

A piece of shrewd managerial strategy sponsored by Billy Gibson crept insidiously into the proceedings at this stage. By what appeared to be an insignificant detail (but what was in actuality a carefully worked out program) Tunney was matched to fight Greb.

In Tommy's home town at the same time De Forest called on Gibbons. Tunney and Greb had previously fought four times. This was to be their fifth meeting. Greb had handled Tunney handsily in their first two fights, but in the next two Tunney had displayed unmistakable marks of superiority.

On the night of their fifth fight Gibbons occupied a ringside seat. He was there to see how much Tunney had advanced and what he (Gibbons) would have to do in order to win if he ultimately signed with De Forest.

Gibson's original thought was to turn Tunney loose from the opening gun and win by such a convincing margin that the assembled critics would launch a ballyhoo of their own accord and force Gibbons into a match with Tunney.

With this in mind Tunney opened up energetically against the Pittsburgh freak and battered him around the ring practically as he pleased for four rounds.

At the end of the fourth Tunney, sitting in his corner, remarked to Gibson: "I'm hitting harder than ever and I seem to be faster. He isn't getting away from any of my leads."

Gibson had sensed this before. Tunney. Many years of experience in the corner behind the sharpshooters Leonard had given him a remarkable intuition in this respect.

Gibson now found himself torn between two surging desires. One was to have Tunney go into the records as the first fighter to knock out Greb since the windmill became a star. The other was to make sure that Gibbons would still be in the mood to take on Tunney when the fight was over.

Although the reasoning was at variance with his original thought, Gibson decided on the latter policy. "Let him stay," he whispered in Tunney's ear as he massaged the fighter's neck with his right hand. "If Gibbons learns you've developed a punch well, he'll have a hard time making the match."

So Greb stayed and Gibbons finally signed for the match which was to topple him into the resin and oblivion simultaneously for the first time.

Gibbons was pathetic in that fight. Knocked out in the twelfth round it was evident as early as the third round that he would never go the distance.

Tunney out-noodled him, out-boxed him and out-slugged him, from start to finish. You aren't supposed to do much more in order to win under the Queensberry rules.

The squawkers, who were taken for their bankrolls by the surprising result, turned their depraved spleen on the battered Gibbons, and charged he had taken a dive.

I had a few smackers riding on Gibbons myself that night. My stupefaction was as acute as the next one's at the utter lack of efficiency Gibbons showed against Tunney. But nobody can tell me Gibbons "took one."

Tunney won mainly because he was the better man in every important essential. The surprise was that he did not win quicker.

By the addition of several thousand side-line seats the ticket committee will be in a position to supply more desirable accommodations for the alumni and public. Several new runways are being constructed to relieve congestion in the west stands. The plan is to seat the first twenty rows from the bottom, feeding the aisles from long, winding approaches and not through the narrow entrances above the stadium.

Director of Ticket Sales Levis has secured an increase in the Chicago game allotment of twenty-five per cent. This is not sufficient to make a great deal of difference in the allotment for the finale with Starg's eleven, because the demand has so greatly exceeded the supply in the past.

THREE HURT WHEN CAR TIPS OVER

Elmer Richardson, Paducah, Ky., his wife and five year old daughter, and his mother, Mrs. Mead Richardson, Kaukauna, were the victims of an automobile accident late Friday afternoon on the Rapids road near Manitowoc when the car which Mr. Richardson was driving turned turtle on a sharp curve a few miles from the city.

Mr. Richardson, reports indicated, suffered a possible fracture of the leg, his daughter was cut and bruised, and Mrs. Mead Richardson was reported Saturday as suffering from shock. Mr. Richardson's wife was the only one of the party to escape injury.

The family group left Kaukauna Friday afternoon to visit friends and relatives in the Aluminum City and had nearly reached their destination when the mishap took place. The road at this point is gravel, it is reported.

An ambulance from the Manitowoc hospital took the injured to that city. Fred Cooper, Kaukauna, a member of the family, and Mr. Mead Richardson left for Manitowoc upon being informed of the accident.

Elmer Richardson and his family have been in Kaukauna visiting his parents.

KAUKAUNA YOUTH STARS AS BAGDER GRID TEAM LOSES

Farewell Is Triple Threat Back as Illini Campers Win from Wisconsin

Fort Sheridan, Ill.—Wisconsin lost the C. M. T. C. football championship, which they have held for four consecutive years, in a hardfought game here Tuesday afternoon, when "Jimmy" Brader's team was unable to solve the attack of "Barney Traynor's" pony back, and the lads from the Sucker state romped home with the game by a 13 to 6 score.

Among the lads who starred on the Badger team were Jack Farwell of Kaukauna, who was the triple threat man of the Wisconsin backfield and the man largely responsible for their long gains in the second half. He hurled passes of all lengths and descriptions and only a very few were incomplete. His kicking was easily of college caliber and his wonderful defensive play was outstanding.

Alois Liethen of Appleton was the center until he was forced out of the game on account of injuries and he gave a very good account of himself while in the tilt.

Bailendorf, Milwaukee lad, played a whole of a game at one of the half-back positions after playing almost all of the lightweight game which was played just before the big game.

Keagie, a former student at Northwestern university, was the main reason for the downfall of the Badgers with his remarkable open field running. He caught a punt on his own 40 yard line and racing behind perfect interference, went over with the winning touchdown early in the second quarter.

Wisconsin scored on a forward pass late in the third quarter, after they had advanced almost the entire length of the field on passes. They threatened several times in the sunset period, but lacked the final punch to send the tying score over.

ROUNDERS WIN TENTH IN KIMBERLY LEAGUE

Kimberly—Wrinkles Rounders won their tenth game in the Kimberly Twilight Softball league Thursday evening by trouncing the Kimberly Postmasters, 11-4. Both teams were without their complete lineups and players were picked from the sidelines to fill in.

Wrinkles Rounders apparently have clinched first place in the league standings, as there remains only two more games on the schedule for each team to play. However, there are a number of postponed games to be played off.

Verhagens Hardwares have moved up to fourth place, and the Bakers moved down to fifth. The Clubhouse Boosters have gone lower in the cellar having now lost eight games while winning one.

Games for next week are: Monday, Clubhouse Boosters, vs. Wrinkles Rounders; Wednesday, Verhagens Hardwares vs. Van Thull Bakers; Thursday, Verhagens Shoes vs. Kimberly Postmen.

	Won	Lost
Wrinkles Rounders	10	1
Verhagens Shoes	6	3

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Appleton ball fans will have the big opportunity of the year Sunday, when the first-place Oshkosh crew invades this city for its last game with the Baetzmen. Oshkosh has beaten the locals, 2-1, in three games so far but in the last tilt Sternagle had them begging for mercy. Included in the Oshkosh lineup is Freddy Hackbarth, leading slugger of the loop, and a former New York Giant rookie, Gietzen, speedball hurler, whose work is attracting A. A. scouts probably will top the hill. The Baetzmen are after an even split with their worst rivals while the Noelmens must win to keep on top so the battle should be a hot one.

Appleton high school now has over 5500 of new equipment for athletics. With this added to last year's new material, every boy in the school who desires to play can be accommodated this fall. Now all that's needed is a few real boys to take advantage of it. At least 50 should be out every night in a city of this size in spite of the junior highs.

Dame Rumor, that old gossip, without whom the average man would have a hard time living, is at it again. About this time of the year the lady starts cooking up football stories. The latest should be of interest to all good Lawrence athletic fans. According to the Dame, three members of the Blue grid squad may desert the school for some other this fall, along with a former gridman.

Here's the bare facts with no opinion on the rumors. Write your own ticket as our more famous friend Roundy would say. The men are a halfback and a center of the 1925 frosh crew, a former Blue varsity captain, still in school and former end. The boys requested Cub Buck to take them along to Miami college when he leaves to take up his coaching duties, and while Cub, and who wouldn't with this type of griddier, would be glad to have them, he told them to see Denny and Carlin and make everything clear with their school before he would take a hand. He also reported the talk to Blue authorities.

Lawrence will receive a hard blow to its football hopes if the boys leave, they say they must and unless they can secure jobs here, they'll have to try another college. Whether there is anything to the rumors will not be known until the season really starts.

Work on the new Lawrence college tennis courts is coming along fine and soon seven of state's best college courts will be ready for use at Whiting field. Looks like Appleton will be able to have real tennis tournaments soon. A number of Blue authorities favor the use of the courts for the community games in the summer when school is out, using the field house for shower baths and rest. This would be at a nominal sum which would go into the Blue athletic fund.

Frank Walsh, local golf pro, is getting his fill of tournaments this year, which ought to make him a dangerous competitor in all big competitions next year. The local man finished high in the national open in a large field of famous stars, was second in the state open and now is competing in the western open. Monday he will compete in another meet at Chicago. Aside from this he has been in plenty of informal matches, with men like Sixty, Kirkwood, Hagen, Watrous and others. The experience is all Frank needs to rank with the best in the country. Buster Book, Sheboygan youth, is another "tourney hound" who will profit by it. He's been in all but the national open, plus the state and northeastern amateurs and two or three invitation meets at Milwaukee and Sheboygan.

BEGGARS' STORE

ORANGE CENTER STARS ON BADGER CAMP GRID TEAM

Al Liethen Bulwark of Wisconsin Line Against Illinois Campers

Alois "Al" Liethen, center and guard on Appleton high school grid squads for the last two years and a candidate for the 1926 crew, was the outstanding star of the Wisconsin line in a game played between Badger boys and those from Illinois at the Citizens Military Training camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill., according to reports from the camp. The Illinois boys beat Wisconsin, 13-6, though the Badgers had a second touchdown called back after the ball was over.

Liethen worked for three weeks to get in shape for the game and was rewarded by being kept in the center position three-quarters of the tilt. He proved the bulwark of the Badger line. Jack Farwell, Kaukauna, played the fullback position, while Gilbert St. Mitchell, Kaukauna, lost an end position by an injury.

Reports state that Liethen was in every play and was one of the few Badgers to outplay his opponent. Appleton boys at the camp said the game was more interesting than a Lawrence-Ripon struggle with more spirit shown. Jimmy Brader, coach of

MILLS SHIFT ATTACK FROM KERS TO BREWS

Minneapolis — The first place Brewers were beaten back Friday afternoon in the first skirmish along the western front. The Millers were in a playful mood and while not going anywhere themselves have a disgusting habit of stopping people who are continuing where they left off with the champion Colonels they plastered three Milwaukee heavers to annex a slugging bee by an 11 to 8 margin.

DUTCH REUTHER MOVES FROM BUCS TO YANKS

New York—(AP)—Walter (Dutch) Reuther, veteran left handed pitcher of the Washington Senators has been obtained by the New York Yankees on waivers, according to an announcement by Manager Miller Huggins.

the Badger crew and former line coach at Wisconsin, now signed with Harvard, said the game was better than most colleges play considering the short time of practice the boys had. They practiced four days a week an hour and a half at a "shot." Liethen's work will put him in fine shape for the local high school's season and will give him an advantage over the other boys in handling a pigskin.

PHILLIES SHOVE CARDS FROM 2ND

Take Second Straight to Keep Bucs on Top and Place Reds Next

For two whole days the Pittsburgh Pirates have held a half game lead in the hectic struggle that grips the National League.

This performance, startling in view of the rapid fire changes in the standing during the past week that has seen the St. Louis Cardinals twice dislodging the Pirates from the peak, was accomplished Friday through the sterling pitching of Joe Bush, American League discard, who blanked the Giants, 4-0.

At the same time the Cincinnati Reds took complete possession of the second place berth where the Cards have been spending their time when not at the top of the heap. Eppa Rixey lengthy southpaw, moved down the Brooklyn cohorts for the second 4-0 whitewash of the day.

To second straight day the lowly Phillies harpooned the Cardinals championship hopes with a 9-7 victory.

The pitching feats of Rixey and Bush who doled out three and fourths respectively were shared somewhat by Tony Kautman of Chicago who ran the Cubs winning streak to six games by turning back the Boston Braves, 5 to 1.

Herb Pennock, with his twentieth victory of the season in the opener of the series with Detroit, 4 to 1 enabled the Yankees to put a crimp in the surge of the Tigers toward second place in the American League. Tony Lazzari bumped one of the park in the fourth with two on for his 16th circuit clout of the year.

St. Louis Browns took unto themselves a little satisfaction when they broke the Jinx that has dogged them at Shibe Park this season. The Browns took their first game from Philadelphia in ten starts, 7 to 1. Manush showing the way with four hits in four appearances at the plate. Cleveland took two from Boston Red Sox 9 to 3 and 5 to 4.

The last inning was the big frame for the Chicago White Sox, who trailed Washington all the way before breaking out three runs to gain the decision 5 to 3.

Harry Quong Bill, Des Moines, out-pointed Joey Weiss, Milwaukee (5).

Cleveland—Billy Wallace, Cleveland scored technical knockout over Tommy Farley, New York (4).
